Lt. Gov. Karyn Polito will serve as the Grand Marshal of the Quincy Flag Day Parade Saturday, June 11th. Polito has served the Commonwealth as its 72nd lieutenant governor since 2015. She is a life-long resident of Shrewsbury and she and her husband Stephen Rodolakis have two children.

"We are thrilled to honor Lt. Gov. Polito's service to the Commonwealth and her career to date in public service," said Mayor Thomas Koch, chairman of the Quincy Flag Day Parade Committee. "Her understanding of municipal government, built through her years on the Shrewsbury Board of Selectmen, helped build a great bond with cities and towns throughout our Commonwealth, including Quincy. Her and Governor Baker's support for our downtown infrastructure investments were critical to the successful redevelopment of our downtown. Without their help, this long-awaited redevelopment achievement could not have happened."

Polito served on the Shrewsbury Board of Selectman until she was elected state representative in 2001. She is a graduate of Boston College and the New England School of Law.

The Flag Day Parade steps off at 7 p.m. on Coddington Street in Quincy Center. The parade proceeds north on Hancock Street before turning into Merrymount Park.

Lt. Governor Polito will march in the parade and then be recognized at the flag-raising ceremony at Pageant Field.

Polito joins an illustrious list of Quincy Flag Day Grand Marshals that includes General Joseph Dunford, Patriots star Willie McGinnest, General Ronald Rand, Quincy's Vietnam veterans, television anchor Sorboni Banerjee, General Francis McGinn, meteorologist Ed Carroll, Olympic Medalist Karen Cashman, Norfolk County Sheriff Clifford Marshall, Koch Club co-founder Simone Koch, two-time Grand Marshal Jake Comer, Quincy's Blue Star Families, General James McConville, local philanthropist Dr. Al Yacubian, and many more.

"Our community has a history of paying tribute to those that have served their country, their commonwealth, and their community," Koch said. "Our Flag Day Parade is a great tradition that recognizes service of all kinds. Lt. Governor Polito has been a tremendous public servant and I hope all of Quincy comes out to say thank you for all that she has done."

Quincy's Flag Day Parade is the longest-running Flag Day Parade in the nation. It was started by the late-Richard Koch in 1952 who marched children from The Koch Club through Norfolk Downs before ending with a flag-raising ceremony at Cavanagh Stadium.

Marilyn Nestor To Receive Koch Youth Service Award

The Koch Club and the Flag Day Parade Committee announce that long-time Koch Club volunteer Marilyn Nestor will receive the Richard J. and Simone N. Koch Youth Service Award. Nestor volunteered countless hours for the girls' softball and bowling program for decades.

MARILYN NESTOR

The Richard J. and Simone N. Koch Youth Service Award recognizes a local volunteer that makes an impact on the youth of Quincy. Each year, the recipient is honored in the Flag Day Parade, which was started by the Koch Club more than 70 years ago.

"We are thrilled that Marilyn will be participating in this year's parade as the Koch Youth Service Award Winner," said Mayor Thomas Koch. "She played a large role in promoting opportunities for girls and young women through the Koch Club recreational programs. She helped run the bowling and softball programs that benefitted thousands of Quincy females through the many years she volunteered."

The Flag Day Parade and Fireworks will take place on Saturday, June 11th. The parade steps off at 7 p.m. from Coddington Street in Quincy Center and ends at Pageant Field in Merrymount Park. Following the

'Raccoon Island Challenge' Walk June 18

The Department of Natural Resources Environmental Treasures program invites the public to a free "Raccoon Island Challenge" Saturday, June 18 at 8:30 a.m.

Participants must brave muddy sand flats traversing inch deep water in places to become their own Robinson Crusoes on a desert island. Accompanied by coastal citizen scientist Peter Fifield, they will explore tidal pools and rocky beaches to find their own natural "treasure."

Children welcome. Terrain is rocky and slippery in places.

Hiking poles or sticks are strongly recommended along with water and a sun hat. Please wear sturdy shoes or sandals that can get a little wet.

Registration required at sowen@quincyma.gov. Meeting location and trip details provided upon registration.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On June 20, 1782, Congress adopts the Great Seal of the United States after six years of discussion. The seal depicts a bald eagle clutching an olive branch in its right talon and arrows in its left. On its breast appears a shield marked with 13 vertical red and white stripes topped by a bar of blue. The eagle's beak clutches a banner inscribed, E pluribus unum, a Latin phrase meaning "Out of Many One."

• On June 26, 1807, lightning hits a gunpowder factory in Luxembourg, killing more than 300 people. When lightning struck the underground armory, two entire blocks were leveled by the blast.

• On June 21, 1916, the controversial U.S. military expedition against Mexican revolutionary Pancho Villa brings the U.S. and Mexico close to war when Mexican troops attack U.S. Gen. John J. Pershing's force at Carrizal, Mexico. The Americans suffered 22 casualties, and more than 30 Mexicans were killed.

• On June 25, 1942, Gen. Dwight Eisenhower becomes commander of all U.S. troops in the European theater of World War II. He would be appointed Supreme Allied Commander of all forces in Europe in 1943. "Ike" would later become America's 34th president.

• On June 24, 1953, Jacqueline Bouvier and Massachusetts Sen. John F. Kennedy publicly announce their engagement. Kennedy gave her a 2.88-carat diamond-and-emerald ring. He went on to become the 35th president and Jackie became one of the most popular first ladies ever.

• On June 22, 1964, Dan Brown, author of the "The Da Vinci Code," is born in New Hampshire. Brown's bestselling novels are known for symbols, conspiracies and secret societies.

• On June 23, 1992, Mafia boss John Gotti, nicknamed the "Teflon Don," is sentenced to life in prison. Moments later, hundreds of Gotti's supporters stormed the federal courthouse in Brooklyn and overturned and smashed cars before being forced back by police reinforcements.

To Whom It May Concern: ALL Of Us

"Will my sneakers give us away?" sobbed the little voice near me. Amy's light-up footwear was blinking with every nervous toe tap. I motioned for her to come and she quickly swapped her spot to squish next to me on the floor against the bookshelves.

My spot is ALWAYS closest to the door.

I hugged her and whispered, "No, they are beautiful …gotta get me a pair of those!" She smiled and I wished I could hug each of my students in that moment as we crouched along the front of the room. The string of students pooled into the corner under the science table. I could see twenty-four pairs of eyes squarely on me.

We were second-graders jammed into the corner of my small classroom. A larger group than usual. We knew in advance lockdown procedures were this day: lockdown, fire drill, and reverse evacuation. We had our routine: lock the door, pull the shades, turn out the lights, move a few desks, hide, and wait.

Wait for what?

The jiggle of the door handle.

I had explained to the seven and eight-year olds that this noise is our Safety Officer checking that we are safe and that he cannot see us through the glass or hear us.

Our minds and eyes wander. The outlines of sunlight around the six shades. The light reaching in to us- comforting and calming. The dimly-lit colorful posters. Our favorite is the photo of the hibernating bear slumbering unaware.

Our clothesline displaying our Mother's Day projects: large paper flowers with an oversized photo of each smiling face encircled by cupcake liners and colorful tissue paper- an original poem stapled to the bottom. Our "Good Job Board" showcasing exemplary behavior: "Teamwork Works" is our mantra. Our plastic shoe holder hanging from the closet door housing the children's "AOK" notes- a daily "Act of Kindness" written to a classmate.

As teachers, we try to highlight the best of human nature.

Of course, we do.

I try to make eye contact with each child. With a smile and nod of my head, I attempt to relay my certainty that we are safe. All is well.

My arm firmly around Amy. Her feet now steady and quiet. I close my eyes knowing I would remember THIS lockdown drill.

Of course, I would.

We wait.

My mind drifts to my dear second-grade colleagues (70 years experience between us). They are my teammates and supportive bookends as my classroom finds itself between their rooms. I remember when we had the locks upgraded in our 100-year old building. Any connecting classrooms were now locked; upstairs, the intermediate rooms were all connected on their respective sides.

I can see my small gavel that I use for our auctions: the kids earn points for positive behaviors and can "cash out" by buying free time, a visit to their first-grade teacher, or perhaps some private time with one of our stuffed animals. They all wanted Piglet or Eeyore to sit on their desks overseeing their daily work. I marveled at their imagination throughout the year- these creative reward ideas were no exception.

Earlier that year, after Sandy Hook, we, of course, talked about safety. One of the kids suggested using our auction gavel to defend against any "bad people" who might get into our room. Children want to help.

Of course, they do.

I went home that evening and cried again for the Newtown children, families, and teachers. I think of the "what would you do if" scenario. If you are a teacher, you do.

Of course, you do.

I have estimated that a ten-foot ladder could reach my classroom windows if we had to evacuate- ludicrous to even think of it, yet I have. I think of our fantastic principal and wonderful secretary who are closest to the front door; our terrific school nurse and my lovely friend who teaches first grade are within eyeshot as well. I think of my friend who teaches kindergarten downstairs as she is the closest classroom to the back entrance. We are a close-knit community. We are friends.

Of course, we are.

We wait.

No matter how often we had discussed this noise as a class, it nevertheless jars all of us. It is not loud, yet the sound reverberates through the silence and through us. Amy tightens her grip. I signal thumbs up to my kids as we collectively exhale. We now wait for the fire alarm to sound as we ready to complete the remainder of the drills.

When parents asked about safety, my answer was always: "We are as safe as we can be." Our district and school have done a laudable job addressing safety issues.

Yet, in a real-life scenario…How would it look? Where would the "bad people" get in? What would I do as their last line of defense? We think of these things.

Of course, we do.

We weep for the children murdered. We weep for the families shattered. We weep for the survivors traumatized.

We weep for all of our children, confused and frightened. And we weep for this country, fractured and reduced.

Let us hug our children. Comfort them. Talk with them. Listen to their concerns. Then let us reach out to our legislators.

Please.

For their safety.

For their sanity.

For, they are sacred.

Consult Arborist Before Cutting Down Trees

Before cutting down the trees, please contact an arborist who has experience in forest management. There was an article in a recent edition of the Smithsonian Magazine that discussed the life of forests, or a small cluster of trees. Each has a hub tree that takes care of the others. I read another article years ago about how the trees coexist with the underground fungi.

Cutting the trees down willy-hilly can destroy the precious ecosystem of that area. As we all know they absorb the carbon dioxide from the air, but the older the tree, the more they absorb.

The life of the trees in that park is is vital to our future existence. And they are more beautiful than a parking lot.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS 1907 postcard printed in Germany is a view of the old sightseeing observatory that was on the top of Great Hill at the end of Houghs Neck. The tower was built in 1901 by Quincy contractor William Lofgren who also built many of the Quincy churches of the time with wooden steeples. The tower was octagon in shape and about 25 feet wide at the base tapering to 12 feet at the top, rising 50 feet high with a 25-foot pole at the top flying a 12-foot flag. Lofgren's company built it in three weeks. The tower was built for Andrew Odom, a young civil engineer who worked for the city and was also an entrepreneur. He had the tower built as an investment; he placed a powerful telescope at the top and charged five cents for admission. At over 130 feet above sea level, the view on a clear day was fantastic; besides all of Boston Harbor and Quincy Bay it included Gloucester to the north, Provincetown to the east and Plymouth to the south. The tower was later fully enclosed and converted into a summer cottage. It burned to the ground in 1939.

42-Hour Work Week For Quincy Firefighters

Mayor James R. McIntyre signed a new 42-hour workweek for Quincy firefighters.

The new contract reduces the workweek from 48 hours to 42 hours. Present at the signing were Fire Chief Edward F. Barry, Councillor at-Large John J. Quinn and John Menz, Jr., president of Quincy Firefighters Local 792.

Mayor McIntyre also signed contracts for registered nurses at the hospital, giving them a six percent salary hike.

Public Works, L.P.Ns and nurses' aides will receive a six percent raise effective July 1.

2,200 TO MARCH FOR OLD GLORY

Some 2,200 youngsters and adults will join forces in a demonstration in Quincy Saturday. They are getting together simply to boost their country and flag.

The occasion will be a 2 p.m. Flag Day parade and ceremonies sponsored by the Koch Club, a non-profit recreational-civic organization.

There will be Stars and Stripes by the thousands. An estimated 1,200 boys and girls, five to 14, will march through the Quincy Center area, each proudly carrying Old Glory.

The flag bearers, all members of the Koch Club, will be joined in the march by another 1,000 youngsters and adults including veterans' units, bands and drum and bugle corps.

"All kids love a parade," noted Richard J. Koch, Sr., club founder and executive director.

Movie Review: 'Top Gun: Maverick'

By BOB GARVER

I watched the original "Top Gun" from 1986 to prepare for "Top Gun: Maverick." The aerial stuntwork and action sequences were impressive, but like many 1980s movies, it fell into the trap of having a smarmy protagonist in Tom Cruise's Pete "Maverick" Mitchell.

I was particularly skeezed out by a scene where he blatantly overstepped a boundary by following prospective love interest Charlie (Kelly McGillis) into a ladies' room to hit on her. Fortunately, Maverick is much better-behaved in the new movie, at least around women. He still gives his superiors headaches with his against-protocol flying style, but he's done enough growing up in the last 36 years that I can properly root for him now.

The new film opens with Maverick saving a manned Navy flying program from a drone advocate (Ed Harris) by pushing a prototype plane to Mach 10. The flight is totally reckless and the plane is destroyed, but all Maverick had to do was get it to Mach 10 in the first place, so it counts as a win. The bureaucrat wants to ground Maverick permanently over the stunt, but our hero is instead transferred to the Top Gun flight academy in California, where he is to instruct an elite group of pilots on how to take out a secret weapons arsenal on dangerous foreign soil (the exact country is unspecified, probably for the best).

The assignment is a tricky one for Maverick, because even though he requested to become a Top Gun instructor at the end of the first film, his stint didn't go well and he didn't last two months. But he understands the importance of the mission, so he teaches the young pilots the only way he knows how: by breaking all the rules, much to the consternation of his superiors (Jon Hamm and Charles Parnell). Never one to go too long without a lover, Maverick also reconnects with old girlfriend Penny (Jennifer Connelly). He's still a bit unsure of himself, and needs some words of encouragement from old friend Iceman (Val Kilmer, in a performance that sadly reflects the actor's real-life health).

The new pilots include Hangman (Glen Powell), Bob (Lewis Pullman), Phoenix (Monica Barbaro), Payback (Jay Ellis), and Fanboy (Danny Ramirez). Then there's Rooster (Miles Teller), the son of Maverick's late former partner Goose (Anthony Edwards). To say Rooster resents Maverick is an understatement, not so much for the death itself, but for Maverick deliberately setting his career back with well-intentioned motivations. But it adds a layer of tension to an already-tense mission. I would have switched a few characters around for the climactic mission, but the movie is set on a certain direction.

As always, the flying stunts are all top-notch. Cruise, as is his trademark, insisted on doing many stunts himself, and he definitely put himself through the ringer here, as did the other actors. I'm sure their motivation was that they didn't want the... "more seasoned" Cruise showing them up. I'm not sure how wise it was to subject themselves to so much motion sickness and pressurization issues, but I have to admit, their eyes are rolling back in their heads just right.

The story of "Top Gun: Maverick" isn't going to break any new ground. An unconventional instructor plays by his own rules, but at the end of the day cares deeply about completing the mission and protecting his students. He's ordered to leave one behind at one point, but we all know there is zero chance that Maverick will obey that order. The likeable characters and exciting action sequences make "Top Gun: Maverick" the epitome of a crowd-pleasing summer blockbuster. Spring for premium tickets in an IMAX/Dolby/Prime theater is you can, as this is the perfect time to make sure a movie is big and loud.

Grade: B-

"Top Gun: Maverick" is rated PG-13 for sequences of intense action, and some strong language. Its running time is 131 minutes.

Boost The Beauty Of Spring Flowering Shrubs

By MELINDA MYERS

Bring your overgrown lilacs, forsythia, mock orange, pieris and other spring flowering shrubs down to size while maintaining their natural beauty and spring floral display.

Prune spring blooming shrubs right after flowering for maximum flowering. These shrubs set their flower buds in summer so pruning at other times of the year reduces or eliminates the spring floral display. Major pruning on these shrubs can also be done in late winter. It's easier to see what needs cutting and the plants respond well to pruning at this time of the year. You'll just eliminate some of the spring flowers.

Summer blooming shrubs like potentilla, beautyberry, and Annabelle-type hydrangeas flower on new growth. Prune these, when needed, in late winter or early spring before growth begins or anytime during the dormant season.

Make sure you have the proper tools and safety equipment before making the first cut. Protect your eyes and hands with safety glasses and gloves. Then make sure your pruning tools are clean and sharp. Using the right pruning tool for the job helps ease muscle strain and fatigue while making proper cuts that close quickly. This will reduce the risk of insects and diseases moving into the plant.

Use bypass pruners to cut small stems that are 1/2-inch diameter or less. These have two sharp blades, like scissors, and make clean cuts that close quickly. Employ a bypass lopper like Corona® Tools' ClassicCUT® SL15167 with soft grips that fit well and will cut limbs up to 1 ¾" in diameter. Loppers have long handles that give you greater leverage and extend your reach.

You will need a pruning saw when doing renewal pruning. A short-bladed saw makes it easier to access and cut larger stems to ground level. Look for a saw, like the RazorTOOTH Saw® RS16150, with a pull stroke cutting action and ergonomic handle. It makes fast and easy cuts and minimizes hand fatigue.

Once you have your tools, you are ready to start pruning. Reduce the height and leggy growth on overgrown suckering shrubs over the next three years. This type of renewal pruning is better for the plant and most gardeners find it less stressful for them as well.

Remove one third of the largest and oldest stems to ground level each year for three years with renewal pruning. If your shrub has twelve stems, you will prune four of these back to the ground this year, four more the following year, and remove the last four older stems the third year. By the end of the three years, you have a smaller shrub with leafy stems from ground to tip and flowers at a level you can enjoy.

Start by removing any crossed or dead branches. Disinfect tools with a 70% alcohol or disinfectant spray between cuts, if you suspect the plant is suffering from disease. This will help reduce the risk of spreading the disease throughout the plant.

You can stop pruning at this point and continue renewal pruning next year in late winter. If you decide to continue, remove a few more of the older stems to ground level. Taking these stems back to the ground encourages new growth at the base of the plant.

Minimize additional pruning at this point. You can reduce the height on any wayward branches as needed. Make your cut on a slight angle above an outward facing bud or stem. This encourages growth away from the center of the plant, reducing the risk of crossing branches in the future.

Maintain the size and prevent leggy growth with regular pruning in the future. Just remove a few older stems to ground level every year or two. Investing a bit of pruning throughout the life of your plants helps boost their heath, beauty, and your enjoyment.

Shrimp Sauté Over Polenta

By MARIE

Today's recipe for a Shrimp over Polenta entrée is one that always pleases the family and I've been making this recipe for years. It's only a few ingredients but tastes like a much more complicated recipe.

Directions and Ingredients:
1 pound jumbo shrimp
1 box instant polenta
½ cup parmesan cheese
2 tablespoons butter

For the polenta: Cook the polenta according to directions, then add ½ cup parmesan cheese and 2 tablespoons of butter - these additions make the polenta both tasty and creamy.

When done, set aside and keep warm.

To cook the shrimp – you can flour and sauté the shrimp in hot oil or simply sauté the shrimp without flour – the choice is yours.

Either way, sauté in 2 tablespoons of butter until done.

Place polenta in bowl and then place sautéed shrimp all around it. This is delicious all together!

A Lighter Coleslaw

By SUZIE

You know, coleslaw really is a health food. Its main ingredient is cabbage, which is rich with an array of cancer fighting plant chemicals (called indoles), fiber, along with lots of other vitamins and minerals.

This dressing is light and flavorful. Adding the fresh cilantro and flaxseed oil knocks the nutritional value out of the park!

1/2 head green cabbage, halved, and sliced very thinly. (You can purchase it already chopped if you like!)
2 carrots, grated
1/2 cup chopped scallions
1/3 cup chopped fresh cilantro
2 tablespoons flax oil
1 1/2 tablespoons apple cider vinegar (the raw kind)
1 1/2 tsp raw honey
1/4 tsp cumin
1/4 tsp sea salt and pepper

Simply whisk the dressing ingredients in small bowl and toss with everything else. Chilling this dish makes it taste even better. Adjust seasonings if needed. (may need more salt and pepper).

Patriotic, Great American Songbook Concert At H-A Common July 9

The City of Quincy will host a "Patriotic Celebration" July 9th from 6 to 8 p.m. featuring an evening of Patriotic and Great American Songbook music performed by Tom LaMark and his Orchestra.

The concert will take place at Hancock-Adams Common, 1305 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

Tom LaMark has played with jazz stars Dizzy Gillespie and Buddy Rich and some of the greats of show business including Aretha Franklin, Donna Summer, The Smothers Brothers and many more. LaMark has played at Carnegie Hall in New York City and on seven consecutive world cruises on both the Holland America and Royal Viking cruise lines.

The Tom LaMark Orchestra is an experienced ensemble of talented professional musicians and vocalists who have performed at The Museum of Fine Arts, The Boston Ballet, The Boston Symphony, Harvard Business School, Boston College, Northeastern University, The American Ireland Fund, The Children's Trust Fund, Combined Jewish Philanthropies and for thousands who have hired us for their special occasions.

The public is invited to bring a lawn chairs or sit at one of the cabaret tables and chairs. Food is available for purchase at one of the city's downtown restaurants nearby.

There will be lawn games, beer/wine options for sale and a contest for best "Patriotic" outfits!

Social Security Matters

Can My In-laws Get Supplemental Security Income?

By RUSSELL GLOOR
National Social Security Advisor
at the AMAC Foundation, The Non-Profit Arm of the Association of Mature American Citizens

Dear Rusty: I am wondering what the income limit is for Supplemental Security Income (SSI) eligibility. My in-laws are in their 70's. both drawing Social Security, and each has a pension from jobs they retired from. I am wondering if they are eligible to collect SSI. They have income from all sources that is over $2100 per month, they are on Medicaid, but they have no savings and few assets. I have been told by a random family member that they are eligible for SSI, but with their income I have my doubts. All of my online hunt and peck research has made this as clear as mud. Any insight you can offer would be greatly appreciated. Signed: Helpful Daughter-in-Law

Dear Helpful Daughter-in-Law: Supplemental Security Income (SSI) is a separate (non-Social Security) federal supplemental assistance program for low income seniors over 65 and for disabled or blind people of any age, but there are income limitations to qualify for SSI benefits and restrictions on assets as well. Overall eligibility requirements for SSI are quite complex, especially for those with earnings from working (it's also notable that only legal US residents can get SSI). Although some types of income and assets are not counted, only those with very low countable income and very few countable assets can get SSI assistance. Countable income must be less than the federal SS benefit amounts for federal SSI benefits to be paid. If your in-law's current countable income is over $2100 per month, that alone may disqualify them for SSI because their countable income is more than the federal SSI benefit of $841 per individual, or $1261 per couple.

As mentioned, some types of income aren't countable, but pensions and Social Security benefits do count (after a small $20 exclusion). So if most or all of your in-law's monthly income is from those two sources, they almost certainly won't be eligible for additional assistance through SSI. Something else to be aware of is that any SSI benefit they might be eligible for would be offset by their Social Security payment, so if each of their individual Social Security payments are more than $841/month, then there would be no additional benefit from the SSI program. Here is a link at which an explanation of what types of income count, and don't count, toward the SSI income limitation: www.ssa.gov/ssi/text-income-ussi.htm.

From the information you've shared about their current Social Security and individual pension benefits, it does not appear that your in-laws will be able to gain any additional benefit from the Supplemental Security Income (SSI) program. The income restrictions for Medicaid eligibility are more generous and, since they're in their 70s, your in-laws are obviously both on Medicare as well to help with their healthcare expenses.

The 2022 Quincy Homestead tour season began on May 21st with a ceremonial ribbon cutting performed by Quincy Mayor Thomas Koch, accompanied by Councillor at-Large Noel DiBona, state Sen. John Keenan; Wendy Pearl, director of Cultural Resources for DCR, and Lydia Kimball, president of the NSCDA-MA.

Homestead co-chair Carrie Hawley opened the festivities by extending a heartfelt thankyou to a bevy of organizations who have generously supported the maintenance and upkeep of the 342 year old property. Highlighted were the Quincy Community Preservation Committee, the Massachusetts Department of Recreation and Conservation, and the Colonial Warriors who all provided generous grants for the recent restoration of the homestead and the archeological dig. This was an exciting opportunity for members of the community to see the conservation measures performed over the past two years.

First time visitors expressed delight at their first opportunity to tour the inside of the National Historic Landmark. The over fifty visitors who toured throughout the day were treated to an in-depth tour of the historic property and the Quincy family, as well as an impromptu musical performance on the homesteads 1750 spinet by a docent wearing period costume similar to the dress worn by Dorothy Quincy Hancock in her famous Copley portrait.

The Homestead is significant for five generations of the influential Quincy family who occupied the property during the Colonial period of 1636-1763, and for its majestic Georgian architecture. It is known to have been visited by American patriots such as Benjamin Franklin, John Adams and John Hancock and was the childhood home of Dorothy Quincy Hancock, First Lady of Massachusetts, and wife of John Hancock, who was president of the Second Continental Congress, first signer of the Declaration of Independence, and first Governor of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

The Quincy Homestead Committee would like to thank Starbucks and Montilios Bakery for providing coffee and a beautiful cake for visitors to enjoy.

Additional tours of the property will be held beginning on the half hour from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. (last tour starts at 1:30 p.m.) on the following dates:

Saturday, June 25 and Saturday, July 23.

A Job Well Done

By QUINCY POLICE SGT. KARYN BARKAS
Public Information Officer
Quincy Police Department

On Wednesday, May 25, Officer Paul Farina was assigned to the North Quincy section of the city. At approximately 1:20 p.m., he was dispatched to Walgreens on Hancock Street on a report of a disorder involving a knife.

As Officer Farina approached the intersection of West Squantum and Hancock Streets, he saw the Walgreens' assistant manager chasing a male party. The manager told Officer Farina that the suspect he was chasing had just pulled a knife on him. Officer Farina was able to stop the male in front of Chase Bank located at 315 Hancock St. The suspect immediately turned over a red folding knife. Officer Farina detained him by placing him into handcuffs, which were properly placed, fitted, and double locked. The suspect was placed into a cruiser while Officer Farina spoke with Walgreen employees.

The assistant manager stated the suspect and an unknown female came into Walgreens. He immediately recognized both individuals as they had shoplifted from the store in the past. He stated that he was stocking the detergent aisle and knew it was completely full. He saw the male and female go down the aisle. He quickly checked the aisle and saw that many Tide detergent packages were missing. He then went to the front of the store with another Walgreens employee and attempted to stop the suspects from leaving with the detergent. The suspect dropped two of the detergents on the ground, but the assistant manager believed the suspect had more in a black and white striped handbag which was over his shoulder.

The suspect, carrying a knife down by his side, then pushed the employee. While in the parking lot, the employee was still trying to secure the rest of the merchandise. It was at that time that the suspect held up the knife, with the blade out, pointing it at the manager while making threats. When this happened, another employee called the police.

Officer Farina showed the knife he recovered to both employees who confirmed that was the knife used in the robbery. The knife had two blades, with each blade being double edged.

Officer Donnelly was able to stop the female at the Quincy Fire Station on Hancock Street. Officer Farina responded to his location to speak with her. She denied taking any detergent and agreed to a search of her belongings. No detergent was found and she was sent on her way.

Officer Farina responded back to Walgreens to view video footage of the incident. The camera at the entryway clearly shows the suspect with a large bag over his shoulder. The suspect is seen throwing two detergent containers on the ground in the vestibule and walking into the parking lot. From the video, Officer Farina was unable to see the suspect's right hand or the knife. After the suspect left Walgreens, the female is seen picking up the two detergents and walking out the store with them. Officer Farina looked for the merchandise in the area, but was unable to locate it. Both individuals were issued a trespass notice by the assistant manager in the presence of Officer Farina.

The 31-year-old male suspect from Boston was informed he was under arrest and was transported to the station by Officer Patten. He was charged with armed robbery (knife) and carrying a dangerous weapon (double edged knife).

The female suspect will be summonsed to Quincy District for shoplifting.

Great work!

Douglas Trude Promoted To Quincy Fire Lieutenant

By SCOTT JACKSON

A five-year member of the Quincy Fire Department, Douglas Trude was recently promoted to the rank of lieutenant.

City Clerk Nicole Crispo swore in Trude as a lieutenant during a promotional ceremony in the Great Hall of the James R. McIntyre Government Center (old City Hall) on May 31 with two dozen members of the department in attendance. Trude's wife, Jenna, pinned the lieutenant with his new badge after he was sworn in.

Mayor Thomas Koch thanked the city's firefighters for the work they do on a daily basis to protect Quincy residents.

"Anytime we gather for a promotion of any type, I always want to thank you for what you do each and every day for the citizens of our great city. You're a great department," Koch said. "We continue to try to get you the tools that you need and I'm just grateful for the work you do."

DOUGLAS TRUDE, a five-year member of the Fire Department, was promoted to lieutenant on May 31. Trude's wife, Jenna, was on hand at the Great Hall ceremony to pin the lieutenant with his new badge.

Fire Chief Joseph Jackson thanked Koch for his support of the department, and said the promotion would not have the mayor's support. He also thanked Crispo, Patricia McGowan, the city's human resources director, and Det. Paul Brown for their assistance.

Jackson said he has heard nothing but good things about Trude.

"Doug, congratulations man. You've been killing it as a firefighter. It's time to kill it as a lieutenant," Jackson said. "You've done a great job and I hear nothing but good stuff, so stay in the books."

"I've heard nothing but good things about you, Doug, and your reputation on the job," Koch added. "A firefighter's firefighter is what I've heard. We're certainly proud to have you in the department, certainly happy for you today for this promotion."

Trude thanked those in attendance for their presence at the promotional ceremony.

"I just want to say thanks for coming," he said after taking his oath.

The new lieutenant also credited the fellow firefighters he has served alongside for what they have taught him over the past several years and senior firefighters for the example they set.

"Thank you, everybody," Trude said.

Jackson said Trude's initial assignment as a lieutenant would be Engine 3, which is based on Washington street in Quincy Point. After some additional movement, Trude will then be assigned to fire prevention.

"You will enjoy the experience," Jackson said. "Captain Campbell does a great job. He runs a tight ship.

"Congratulations to you and your family. Enjoy the day."

Bill Dunn Jr. Memorial Road Race June 25th

The Bill Dunn Jr. Memorial Road Race will be held Saturday, June 25 in Houghs Neck.

The event is a great time for friends and family of Bill Dunn Jr. to gather in honor of his life and share memories with each other. This is the 14th year the road race is being held, and each year the participation and support is remarkable.

Registration for the event is from 7 to 8:30 a.m. at the St. Thomas Aquinas Hall on Darrow Street. Those interested can participate in a five-mile run or two-mile walk beginning at 9 a.m.

'Slight Uptick' In County Real Estate Activity, Average Sale Prices Up

Norfolk County Register of Deeds William P. O'Donnell reports the May 2022 numbers relative to Norfolk County recordings indicate a continuing decrease in overall real estate activity compared to the May 2021 numbers but show a significant increase in average sale prices.

"Our data indicates that the Norfolk County real estate numbers in May signal a continued slowdown in the market compared to 2021 but show a slight uptick from last month," O'Donnell said. "There were 11,556 documents recorded at the Norfolk County Registry of Deeds in May, a 29 percent decrease from May, 2021 but an increase of 3 percent from April, 2022".

"The number of deeds for May 2022, which reflect real estate sales and transfers, both commercial and residential, show a slight decrease of 3 percent from May, 2021 but an increase of 25 percent from April 2022. Sale prices continue to surge as compared to last year but may be starting to level off. The average sale price in May was $1,264,350, a 26 percent increase compared to May 2021 but down 18 percent from last month. Total dollar volume of commercial and residential sales also showed gains from one year ago, increasing 22 percent and up 3 percent from last month," O'Donnell noted.

Overall lending activity show a continued trend downward for the month of May. A total of 2,283 mortgages were recorded during the month, a significant decrease of 40 percent compared to a year ago. "It appears that the interest rate increases by the Federal Reserve Board and the fact that many consumers have already refinanced are impacting mortgage activity," O'Donnell said

BBB Tip: Protect Yourself From Canceled Contracts When Buying A New Construction Home

By BETTER BUSINESS BUREAU

When it comes to real estate, it's a seller's market. The media is full of stories about houses going under contract for tens of thousands of dollars over the listing price. But once you have a contract with the seller, you are all set, right? Not necessarily.

The price of homes – and construction costs – has risen rapidly. Meanwhile, supply chain issues and labor shortages are causing new building projects to run months longer than expected. This has caused some home builders to cancel contracts or demand higher prices. Unfortunately, in most cases, there's nothing buyers can do about it. While this might be unethical; it's perfectly legal.

If you are buying a new construction home, be sure you understand your risks and responsibilities. Here are BBB's tips to make sure your experience goes smoothly.

Tips for navigating new construction contracts

• Research your builder beforehand. Check online reviews to make sure previous home buyers were satisfied with their experience. Also, look up your builder on BBB.org and review any complaints.

• Understand your contract before signing: Builder contracts are often written to protect the builder and provide many ways for them to terminate the agreement. Don't ever sign a contract on the spot. Instead, take the contract home with you and have a lawyer review it. Make sure you understand what's covered (and not). Your lawyer can suggest changes to the contract that protect you.

• Find out if your contract includes a cost escalation clause. This clause allows the builder to charge you for unanticipated costs, such an increase in lumber prices. If this is included in your contract, your lawyer can help you negotiate more favorable terms.

• Review start and end dates. Make sure you know when your build is scheduled to start and finish. Be sure your contract details your rights and those of your builder if your home isn't finished by the date stipulated in the contract.

• Ask for changes or stipulations before you sign. Once your contract is in place, it's too late to ask for edits. If you want anything changed, do it before you sign.

• Monitor your home building project closely. After your contract is signed, be sure to keep a close eye on your home's construction. "I would advise them to be able to track, track, track. Organize, archive, screenshot, and keep everything in one central location," one construction expert advised buyers. Be sure you are getting exactly what you paid for in your home. For example, builders may claim "supply chain issues" in order to substitute lower quality materials.

• Consider buying an existing home... or wait to build. Supply chain problems and labor shortages are causing delays in new home construction. The longer your new home takes to build, the more time for something to go wrong, such as price increases or issues with the builder's business.

DOVE Offering Programming Within Quincy Public Schools

One-Third Of High Schoolers Experience Abusive Relationships, Stats Show

By SCOTT JACKSON

Representatives from DOVE provided an update on the programs the organization has offered within the Quincy Public Schools during the current academic year at a recent school board meeting.

The programming within the school system is focused on abusive relationships, something one-third of high schoolers experience, Jen Bolton, DOVE's director of education and prevention, said at the June 1 meeting.

"Statistics tell us about one out of three high school students will experience an abusive relationship, which is an incredibly high statistic," she said. "Girls and women between the ages between the ages of 16 and 24 experience the highest rates of intimate partner violence at almost triple the national average."

To put that number into perspective, Bolton compared the rate of teens who experience abusive relationships to other issues parents or school systems may be concerned about. The rate of teenage pregnancy was 1.6 percent in 2019, per the CDC, about 9 percent of teens are diagnosed with anxiety and 4 percent with depression, according to the CDC, while 13 percent of teens binge drink and between 7.9 and 9.8 percent of teens misuse any type of amphetamine, according to The Recovery Village.

"Sometimes abusive relationships aren't even on the list of things that parents are concerned about," Bolton said. "There is such a higher chance a student will be involved in an abusive relationship than any of these other issues."

DOVE's work at the city's two high schools includes training students to become peer leaders and training for staff on how to support students experiencing abusive dating relationships. The peer leaders make classroom presentations, supported by DOVE staff, on healthy and abusive dating relationships. The program also included Teen Dating Violence Awareness Month activity during February.

A total of 24 presentations reaching 206 students were made at North Quincy High School during the current school year; 18 peer leaders were trained at the school. At Quincy High School, nine presentations were made reaching 108 students; 21 peer leaders were trained there. Those programs are all offered in tenth grade.

DOVE also has a curriculum for middle school students that includes six workshops – one for sixth graders, two for seventh graders and three for eighth graders – Bolton said.

"This was the first year that we were really able to offer this to all the middle schools in the full extent it is available," she said.

At Atlantic, there were 48 presentations reaching 471 students; 30 presentations reaching 301 students were made at Broad Meadows; 80 presentations reaching 787 students were made at Central; nine presentations reaching 256 students were made at Point Webster; and 34 presentations reaching 300 students were made at South West.

Supt. Kevin Mulvey said the partnership with DOVE would continue moving forward. Mayor Thomas Koch has used city resources to pay for the programming, Mulvey said.

"This is an initiative the mayor had funded through city funds and it's our intention, and I believe the mayor's intention, to continue that funding moving forward," the superintendent said.

Committee member Tina Cahill said it is key for DOVE to give students a foundation they can build upon as they grow older.

"We talked about it before when we do social-emotional learning, starting to do it at younger grades, I think it's the same kind of thing where we want to build a foundation – teach kids as they grow and get older with different content and build on it so once they leave high school hopefully they have a foundation to support them," she said.

Moving forward, Cahill said she would like to see the number of presentations given be equitable across the city's five middle schools, noting that Point Webster had nine presentations and Central had 80.

Where this was the first year offering all of the presentations in all five middle schools, Bolton said scheduling – which DOVE works out with teachers and staff within each school – might be done in a quicker fashion in the upcoming school year.

"Our hope is that they know us now, they know how to schedule us, know that we're available and can, starting in September and October, get us in for those first semester classes," Bolton said.

Committee member Emily Lebo asked a similar question about the discrepancy in the number of presentations made at the two high schools.

Bolton said DOVE worked with Quincy High School's school psychologist, who was in her first year at the school, to schedule presentations there while the organization has worked with the same staff member at North Quincy High School for several years. She said DOVE would be meeting with Mulvey and Maura Papile, the district's director of student support services, "just to figure out how scheduling can go better."

Lebo said she was hopeful that meeting would take place.

"I just think it's too valuable to have that number of kids missing out on this, especially when we have the mayor's support of it too," Lebo said. "I think it should be on us to make sure that we help."

Lebo also asked if DOVE made any presentations specifically to LGBTQ groups within the schools. Bolton said rates of abuse are higher in the LGBTQ community, "not because of who they are and their identities, but because of how scary it can be to come out and get support," something the abusive person can use as a controlling factor. Point Webster, Bolton said, asked DOVE to focus on that during their presentations. DOVE in the past has also made presentations to gay-straight alliances within high schools, she said.

Committee member Kathryn Hubley asked if there were any topics students sought additional information about. Kelly Truong, DOVE's YouthSpeak coordinator, said one such area is the red flags of dating abuse.

"Abusive relationships are very complex and very hard to recognize," Truong said. "I think students are very intrigued about learning how they can prevent something like that from happening."

Truong said students also often ask how they can support a friend who may be in an abusive relationship.

Committee member Paul Bregoli asked if DOVE's programming includes information on how to end a relationship.

"I'm obviously very concerned about the abusive relationships the kids get themselves into and sometimes don't know how to get themselves out of and that goes both ways, whether it is male-female, female-male, because there is abuse going both ways," Bregoli said.

"Do you discuss that as well, in terms of how to get out of a relationship that's not good for you?"

Bolton said DOVE covers breakups as part of its programming.

"We have a whole segments on breakups, so we will talk about how to end just a healthy relationship, that you just don't want to be with this person anymore, and then having separate conversations about if there

Jimmy Kennedy Memorial Run For ALS Saturday At Pageant Field

The 24th Annual Jimmy Kennedy Memorial Run for ALS, (the Squirrel Run XVIV), a 5-mile run, 2.5-mile fitness walk and family fun day will be held on Saturday, June 11th at Pageant Field, Merrymount Parkway in Quincy.

Proceeds from the Squirrel Run will benefit The Angel Fund, a nonprofit organization dedicated to funding ALS research UMass Chan Medical School in Worcester. Jimmy Kennedy lost his courageous battle with ALS, better known as Lou Gehrig's Disease, in 1997 at the age of 31.

An outstanding football player and track athlete Jimmy graduated from North Quincy High in 1984, the 8th and final member of the Kennedy family to do so. He graduated with high honors from Northeastern, and received his diploma from his dad, Dean of Students Christopher Kennedy (who was also a 25-year member of the Quincy School Committee). Jimmy graduated from Georgetown Law School. After passing the bar on his first attempt, he accepted a job with the prestigious Washington law firm Schwald, Donnenfeld and Bray, and settled in suburban Waldorf, MD.

Jimmy was diagnosed with ALS soon after, at the age of 28. The Jimmy Kennedy Memorial Run for ALS is a tribute to the life of Squirrel, which each year brings together Jimmy's friends, family, former teammates and classmates.

Runners and walkers of all ages and abilities are welcome to participate in the 5-mile run and 2.5-mile walk that begins with registration at 8 a.m. The 2.5-mile fitness walk starts at 9 a.m. followed by the 5-mile run at 10 a.m. Childrens' races begin at 11 a.m.

The cost is $30 for registration. Registrations can be made online at https://theangelfund.org/events/jimmy-kennedy-memorial-race-to-cure-als-squirrel-run-xxiv/

All participants will receive a race t-shirt. Numbers will not be mailed prior to the race. Pre-registered participants can pick up their numbers at the pre-registered table on the day of the event.

In addition to the race and walk, the day will be filled with entertainment for children, plenty of refreshments, and awards for competitive runners in all divisions for men and women. There will be trophies, gift certificates, and other awards.

Major sponsors for the event include Messina Technology Solutions, National Grid, Colonial Federal Savings Bank, Dominos and Quincy Physical Therapy.

For registration information, or for further information about sponsorship, contact Rich (Ratt) Kennedy at (781) 245-7070, or by email theangelfundals@gmail.com.

Point Webster/Clifford Marshall Family Fun Run & Wellness Expo

On Saturday, May 21st, close to 600 members of the Quincy Point community gathered for a Family Fun Run & Wellness Expo hosted by Clifford Marshall Elementary School and Point Webster Middle School.

The goals of the event were to celebrate health and wellness together as a community, and educate students and families about the importance of fitness and good nutrition in our lives. Families started at Point Webster under a giant inflatable start line.

Eighth grade Point Webster student Avyanna Garcia Pizarro wowed the crowd with her beautiful acapella singing of the national anthem.

After a warm up, students and their families ran/jogged/walked the 1.5 mile route to Clifford Marshall, with Quincy police officers ensuring runners' safety along the way. Participants could then partake in the many activities on the Marshall campus – including Dunk the Principal (dunk tank), cornhole, obstacle courses, flag football and basketball drills, touch an ambulance and fire truck, face painting, raffle table, yoga/stretching, photo booth, music and dancing, hula hoops and jump roping, get their blood pressure taken, grab a free book, and even get a COVID vaccine or booster.

Courtney Perdios, one of the organizers of the event, praised the teachers, staff, and administration at both Clifford Marshall and Point Webster schools for their hard work promoting and running the Fun Run, especially Clifford Marshall Principal Nick Ahearn and Point Webster Principal Christine Barrett, as well as Georgie Sullivan (school nurse), Diane Deagle (food services manager), and Lindsey Reardon (first grade teacher) from Clifford Marshall for going the extra mile to make the event a success. Many parents/guardians from both schools' PTOs also volunteered much of their time planning and running the event, including Courtney Perdios, Nancy DeLisle, Manny Alves, Gail Sanchez, Maryellen Lopez, Jeanne Lucas, Melissa Webster, Steve Perdios, Laura Murphy, Trienna Vo, Joy Lewis, Zion Chiu, Lori Croall, and George Maze. A few high school students earned community service hours volunteering their time face painting for students.

The Clifford Marshall and Point Webster PTOs also humbly thank all of the community sponsors whose donation supported this event, including: Mayor Koch, Quirk Auto Dealers, Ward 2 Civic Association, City Councillors Nina Liang and Anthony Andronico, School Committee members Frank Santoro and Emily Lebo, Keith Segalla, Brewster Ambulance, Quincy Fire and Police Departments, Norfolk County Sheriff's Office, MWRA, Manet Health, Bank of Canton, Quincy Credit Union, Fit Factory, Anytime Fitness, ATCK Fitness, Northeast Health & Fitness, Crunch Fitness, Fitness Unlimited, Peak Physical Therapy, MCR Chiropractic & Bay State Physical Therapy, Family Practice of Chiropractic, Stop & Shop, Star Market, BJ's, Jersey Mike's, Missy's Movement, and Christine Way-Cotter Yoga. Special thanks as well to the Quincy Public Schools team, especially Mike Draicchio, for his assistance with safety/security and transportation for the event.

The money raised from this community event will be reinvested back into the schools, and will fund increased wellness initiatives, technology needs, in-school programming, offset field trip costs, support classroom teachers, and other efforts throughout the year for students and families.

If you would like to make a donation to next year's Point Webster/Clifford Marshall Family Fun Run & Wellness Expo, checks payable to "Point Webster PTO" may be sent to Point Webster Middle School, Attn: Family Fun Run, 60 Lancaster St., Quincy, MA 02169.

BRIGID LOPEZ, a second grader at Clifford Marshall Elementary School, and her parents George and Maryellen Lopez, enjoy a moment at the recent Family Fun Run & Wellness Expo hosted by Clifford Marshall Elementary School and Point Webster Middle School.

NQHS Students Earn National Awards For Community Service Impact

Juniors Alex Li And Antonie Tran Both Receive The Ambassador Award, Zero Hero Award

North Quincy High School announces two 11th-grade students are being recognized by the United Nations Association of the USA (UNA-USA) and InnerView in the 5th Annual National Community Service Impact Awards.

This program, open to all U.S. high school students, has been designed to connect student community service activities, skill development, and personal commitment to the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) to transform our world. The Kroger Co. is presenting the third annual Zero Hero Awards to students for taking action to help create communities free of hunger and waste.

"Youth efforts and voices are essential to achieve the SDGs. These awards allow us to share our appreciation for youth leaders who have invested talent and effort in the causes they care about," says Rachel Bowen Pittman, executive director of United Nations Association of the USA. "With a decade remaining to deliver on the SDGs, we are thrilled that these students will be entering the workforce with meaningful community engagement skills and socially aware experiences. We are encouraged that educators are including community service and cultural engagement in the educational experience of their students."

ALEX LI

ANTONIE TRAN

The two students from North Quincy High School, Alex Li and Antonie Tran (both juniors) delivered the most impact for SDG 11-Sustainable Cities & Communities.

"Purpose-driven students continue to generously invest time and talent in causes they care about. We are honored to work with the national service ecosystem and local communities to amplify and recognize the meaningful work of student volunteers who are creating a better world for all," says Kristine Sturgeon, CEO of InnerView Technologies. "We believe the dynamics of the last few years have significantly influenced personal understanding of the connectedness between all people and local and global challenges; this has manifest into an increase of youth volunteer time addressing local needs and leading meaningful projects."

A key artifact students gain through the Award Program is the development of a digital service resume for use in job and college applications to demonstrate personal commitment, 21st century skills, and key areas of interest. The three-tier award program recognizes a range of student achievement: Merit for 20 hours, Honor for 40 hours and Ambassador for 100 hours of service this school year and special recognition for a focus on Zero Hunger and Zero Waste.

Alex and Antonie both received the Ambassador Award and the Zero Hero Award.

QUINCY FLAG DAY fireworks display returns to Black's Creek and Pageant Field Saturday, June 11. The show will start at 9 p.m. This marks the first time since 2019 that the fireworks can be viewed from Pageant Field. parade, there will be a flag-raising ceremony at Pageant Field followed by a fireworks display at 9 p.m.

"Marilyn worked hard to promote girls' sports when it wasn't nearly as popular as it is today," Koch said. "Women like her and my mother encouraged a generation of Quincy girls to get more involved in sports and recreation. They were trailblazers and I am thrilled that we are honoring a woman that had such an impact in our community."

Juneteenth Community Celebration At The Eustis Estate June 18

The public is invited to celebrate freedom and community on Saturday, June 18 from 2 to 5 p.m. at Historic New England's Eustis Estate to commemorate Juneteenth. This event is held in collaboration with Church of Holy Spirit, Mattapan, Courageous Conversations Towards Racial Justice and Celebrate Milton.

The celebration will feature live music courtesy of Branches Steel Drum Orchestra and Cornell Coley drum artist and drum circle aficionado. Come together and lift every voice in song and dance throughout the day.

Artists from Quincy For Transformative Change lead family-friendly activities on the beautiful grounds. Bring a picnic or get a plate of food from Jake's Boss BBQ—a Boston establishment — with a donation.

The museum is open to explore, and new research about families that lived on the estate in the late 19th to early 20th centuries is available.

Tickets are free; donations are encouraged.

For transportation inquiries and other information, call (617) 994-6600.

DOVE Offering Programming Within Quincy Public Schools

has been threats, if there has been physical abuse, sexual abuse – that's a whole different kind of breakup and these are red flags you want to look out for of when you absolutely need to get an adult involved," she said.

Sue Chandler, DOVE's executive director, said the organization's program also includes education for bystanders to recognize signs of an abusive relationship.

"We're not going to just be able to stop it by working with victims who are in a relationship, we're trying to figure out how do we change the culture of what's acceptable around people who are using abuse and how can you try to intervene in that and ideally change the way people are thinking or try to catch it early or note some red flags in a different direction there," she said.

Bolton added she has heard from students who are seeing abusive behaviors in themselves after the presentations, and want to change.

"That's prevention – really starting at the source of it," she said. "We were able to talk to the guidance counselors just about how do you support a student who is coming to you saying that they are exhibiting these behaviors."

Bregoli also suggested that programming should be made available to parents.

"I don't think a lot of parents are aware how pervasive this may be in their teen relationships that are going on, and they need to be," he said. "Maybe they need to be educated as well in terms of what is going on with their kids."

Bolton said DOVE offered two virtual parent academies last year and would love to offer it again.

Hubley asked Mulvey to make sure a parent academy on relationships would be scheduled in the upcoming school year.

Squantum School Scholarships Awarded

The Squantum School PTO Scholarships were awarded to Brendan Glynn, graduating from North Quincy High school and Jordyn Geary, graduating from Fontbonne Academy.

Hamel-Lydon Chapel Accepting Applications For 3rd Annual Compassionate Service Award

Hamel-Lydon Chapel & Cremation Service of Massachusetts (Hamel-Lydon) is offering ten (10) $500 awards to candidates who are home health aides, hospice care aides or certified nursing assistants. Qualifying candidates are invited to apply for the award.

Hamel-Lydon recognizes and appreciates the special care and dedication that frontline healthcare workers provide to their patients. In the spirit of compassionate service, Hamel-Lydon is proud to honor individuals by granting its Compassionate Service Award for its third year to healthcare workers who apply and are selected for the award. The awardees' respected agencies will also receive a stipend.

"Our third annual Hamel-Lydon Compassionate Service Award campaign is well underway, and we are amazed by the moving stories of care and inspiration shared by each of the candidates thus far," said Christopher P. Goulet, president and funeral director of Hamel-Lydon. "Through these awards, Hamel-Lydon Chapel is honored and proud to recognize healthcare professionals who provide the same care and compassion embodied by all of us at Hamel-Lydon Chapel in caring for client-families and the loved ones they entrust to our care."

Visit HamelLydon.com for more information or to apply. Applications are due Sept. 1, 2022.

concern in Norfolk County is the number of pending foreclosures. The Norfolk County Registry of Deeds has been closely watching the foreclosure market. During May, there were five foreclosure deeds recorded as a result of mortgage foreclosures taking place in Norfolk County, one more than in May, 2021 and one less than in April.

However, there were 21 Notices to Foreclose, the first step in the foreclosure process, recorded in May, up significantly from 14 recorded in May 2021.

"The dramatic increase in the number of these notices is alarming," O'Donnell said. "It indicates that more of our neighbors are facing financial challenges going forward. We will continue to monitor these numbers."

For the past several years, the Norfolk County Registry of Deeds has partnered with Quincy Community Action Programs, 617-479-8181 x376, and NeighborWorks Housing Solutions, 508-587-0950 to help anyone facing challenges paying their mortgage. Another option for homeowners is to contact the Massachusetts Attorney General's Consumer Advocacy and Response Division (CARD) at 617-727-8400.

"If you are having difficulty paying your monthly mortgage," O'Donnell said, "please consider contacting one of these non-profit agencies for help and guidance."

Homestead recordings by owners of homes and condominiums decreased again this month at the Norfolk Registry of Deeds. There was a 8 percent decrease in homestead recordings in May 2022 compared to May 2021 but increased 16 percent from last month.

"The comparison from last May is not too surprising where the sales of homes have started to level off, but all homeowners, not just new purchasers, should keep in mind that a recorded Declaration of Homestead provides limited protection against the forced sale of an individual's primary residence to satisfy unsecured debt up to $500,000," O'Donnel said. "We want to see folks protecting the biggest asset most of us have, our homes.

"I would urge anyone who has not availed themselves of this important consumer protection tool to consider doing so. The recording fee is only $36. Feel free to visit the Registry website at www.norfolkdeeds.org to get more information on homesteads and to make sure you have taken advantage of this protection."

O'Donnell concluded:

"May real estate activity in Norfolk County continues to show a decline from last year. We still see the increase in sale prices from last year as indicating a continuing lack of available real estate inventory but looking at the numbers from last month, it appears the market may be starting to cool down a bit.

"The Registry of Deeds continues to be open to the public for business. Registry personnel are processing in-person recordings as well as electronically filed recordings. Council OKs $372.64 Million Budget By 7-1 Vote

Increase Of $26.66 Million Over Current Budget • Councillor Anne Mahoney Lone Dissenter

By SCOTT JACKSON

City councillors on Monday gave final approval to a $372.64 million budget for the upcoming fiscal year, an increase of 7.7 percent over the current budget.

Councillors voted 7-1 in favor of the new budget on Monday. Councillor Anne Mahoney voted against the spending plan while Ward 1 Councillor David McCarthy was not in attendance at the meeting.

Mayor Thomas Koch in May unveiled a $372.73 budget for fiscal year 2023, which begins on July 1. The proposal represented an increase of $26.74 million or 7.7 percent over the current budget of $345.98 million.

The council's finance committee met three times in recent weeks to review the budget. Councillors cut $77,260 from the pensions budget based on a letter from the Public Employee Retirement Administration Commission and $60,332 from their own budget to reject a proposed raise. The budget was also amended to add an additional $52,000 to the Council on Aging personnel services budget to correct an error in the initial budget submitted to councillors.

The budget includes funding for several new positions.

The budget will allow the Police Department to hire five new patrol officers, helping the department maintain a complement of 175 patrol officers as new officers are hired and trained to replace retiring officers. The department will also be able to add new dispatchers.

Other positions include a director of construction in the Public Buildings Department at a salary of $107,000; a community liaison in the mayor's office, a position recommended by Koch's equity, diversity and inclusion commission, at a salary of $75,000; two part-time library assistants and two part-time librarians at the Thomas Crane Public Library; a food inspector in the Health Department; and a building inspector in the Inspectional Services Department.

The budget includes $120.84 million for the Quincy Public Schools, an increase of $3.5 million from the current year's allocation of $117.3 million. The school department's proposed budget would allow for the hiring of more than 17 full-time equivalent employees, including new classroom teachers and other staff members. The School Committee could approve that budget as soon as next week.

Ward 4 Councillor Brian Palmucci, who voted in favor of the budget, said he looks at each budget as a whole and asks whether it is good for the city or not. Palmucci said the new budget has a lot more things he likes than things he does not like.

"Our schools are top-notch. Our city is among the safest in the country for our size. We offer more in terms of senior services than any community around us. Our library department offers programming from the cradle to the grave – there is something for everybody at the library. Our health department has done an amazing job, especially over the last two years; as I said during the budget hearings…I still haven't gotten a complaint about rats," Palmucci said.

"And I am also very happy there will be a liaison position in the mayor's office to reach out to underserved areas of our population; that might be one of the things I like the most about this budget. So, for all those reasons, I will be voting in support of the budget tonight."

Council President Noel DiBona thanked Ward 5 Councillor Charles Phelan Jr. for his work in chairing the budget hearings that took place in recent weeks. DiBona said Quincy avoided personnel cuts in recent years while other communities were laying off municipal employees.

"A lot of other municipalities, other towns and cities, did a lot of layoffs with some of the teachers and school department folks and they have a lot of issues with their budgets," DiBona said. "In Quincy, we sustained a lot of what's going on out there and we continued to chug forward, and we were able to not have that happen here."

Mahoney, who voted against the budget, said Quincy should be tightening its belt with economists and business leaders warning about a potential recession on the horizon.

"I'm very concerned about the amount of spending we're having because there does not seem to be an end to it. Every time I turn around we're seeing another bond coming before us and everyone seems to think it's OK, but at some point we're actually going to have to deal with it," Mahoney said.

"I'm concerned for the taxpayers and I know the taxpayers are feeling it, they are feeling the pinch. They are also being hit with inflation, so it's not good enough just to say that COVID is costing us more money therefore we have to spend more money. We have to be better with what we're doing here in the city of Quincy and we have to tighten our belts, and we're not doing that."

Councillors also approved the sewer and water enterprise fund budgets for the upcoming fiscal year. Those are paid by sewer and water rate payers.

The sewer enterprise fund budget will increase from $26.59 million this year to $27.8 million in the new fiscal year. It was approved in an 8-0 vote.

The water enterprise fund budget will increase from $21.52 million this year to $22.69 million in the new fiscal year. It was approved in a 7-1 vote, with Mahoney opposed.

At Monday's meeting, councillors unanimously approved a series of appropriations prior to voting on the budget.

Those appropriations included $900,000 from parking receipts to offset personnel costs within the Traffic, Parking, Alarm and Lighting Department; $50,476 from the community preservation account to pay the salary of the CPA administrator within the parks budget; and $40,000 from hotel/motel tax receipts to the Quincy Historical Society for tourism initiatives.

In addition, $1.66 million in fees collected from Comcast were appropriated - $980,000 to Quincy Access Television and $680,000 to the school department.

Two items were referred to the council's finance committee for consideration at a future meeting.

The first item was $1.36 million towards ten projects that would be funded with community preservation money. Mahoney sought additional information on two of those projects that would be completed by the Department of Natural Resources, neither of which was specified in the council agenda.

An appropriation of $170,744 in hotel/motel tax receipts to pay for the tourism department's budget was also sent to finance committee. Phelan asked that it be moved to committee because there are not enough funds in the account to pay for those costs.

Dr. Jie Sun Recognized By Mass. Dental Society

Dr. Jie Sun, a prosthodontist practicing in Quincy, has been recognized by the Massachusetts Dental Society (MDS) as one of the "10 Under Ten" for 2022.

Established in 2005 by the MDS, the annual recognition highlights the diversity of new dentists in Massachusetts and their impact on the dental profession.

To qualify, dentists must have graduated from dental school within the past ten years, be an MDS member, and made significant contributions to the profession, their community, and organized dentistry.

DR. JIE SUN

"My passion for both health care and art, combined with my desire for direct patient care and working with my hands, led me to dentistry," Dr. Sun said.

In a typical workday Dr. Sun often sees patients who have neglected their oral health for some time and are nervous about their appointment. She loves working with oral surgeons to rebuild a patients smile.

"It is beyond thrilling to see how my smile design comes to life to make a happy patient," she said.

Currently, a resident of Newton, Dr. Sun earned her Doctor of Medicine in Dentistry (DMD), Master of Medical Science (MMSc), and prosthodontic certification from the Harvard School of Dental Medicine. She is a Diplomate of both the American Board of Prosthodontics and the American Academy of Dental Sleep Medicine.

#1 Seed NQ Advances To Round Of 16 In Boys' Volleyball

Raiders Sweep Fitchburg, Hosted No. 16 Minnechaug Regional Wednesday In Div. 2 Tourney

By TOM JOYCE

It would have been a lot more surprising if the North Quincy High boys' volleyball team didn't win this one.

The Raiders have done a lot of winning this season – whether or not they're facing a local opponent. However, in a match-up between them and a lower-ranked opponent from central Massachusetts, the Raiders had no issue picking up yet another win. In fact, they were dominant.

The Raiders hosted Fitchburg in the first round of the MIAA Division 2 statewide playoff tournament June 4. The Raiders, who are the top seed in the Div. 2 tournament, took down No. 32 ranked Fitchburg 3-0 in the Round of 32 to open the tournament; since the Raiders were a high seed, they got a bye in the preliminary round. With the win, the Raiders improved to 15-1 on the season and advanced to the next round of the tournament.

The Raiders cruised to a first set victory, outscoring their opponent by a more than two-to-one margin. The team jumped out to a 6-0 lead with blocks from Dylan Clifford and Cameron Johnston as well as capitalizing on their opponent's mistakes. While Fitchburg was able to recover and make it a 7-6 contest, the Raiders went off from there. They went on a 9-2 run to make it a 17-9 contest. This run was highlighted by a few kills from Johnston and capped off by a block from Clifford, forcing a Fitchburg timeout.

Fitchburg wasn't able to recover from the Raiders' hot stretch. Adam Huang did well serving late in the set; he got three aces to help put the set out of reach. And the final point of the first set came from a hit by Anthony Chiu that the opposition couldn't return.

The Raiders were also dominant in the early stretch of the second set. They started it off on a 7-1 run, primarily with Nathan Caldwell serving; Clifford had a couple of kills in that stretch, including the one that made it a 7-1 set.

While Fitchburg clawed back, the Raiders forced a timeout about halfway through the set with kills from Bobby Lin and Liam Bailey to make it 12-4 in their favor. The timeout didn't stop the Raiders' momentum. Kills from Bailey, Chiu, and Caldwell, followed by a hitting error on Fitchburg and another kill from Bailey made it a 9-0 run for the Raiders. This gave them a 19-4 lead. The Raiders started subbing reserves into the game during this stretch. They went on to win this set 25-6.

Given how dominant the Raiders were in the first two sets, you can probably guess how the third one went. It was another win for the Raiders.

Fitchburg got a couple of points early, but the Raiders scored more. A kill from Caldwell and an ace from Bailey put the team up 9-4 early in the set. And a kill from Johnston made it 10-5. Fitchburg spent most of the set playing from behind but was never able to catch up. The Raiders went on to win the set 25-15. The final two points of the contest came on a kill from Ben Walinjom and an ace from Lin.

The Raiders have been red hot all season. The win put the team on a 15-game winning streak. After losing their opener against Greater New Bedford 3-0 on April 6, the Raiders had won every single game since as of the start of this week.

Although the Raiders have a strong team this season, they also have a young team; there are only four seniors on the roster.

The roster for the Raiders this season includes: senior defensive specialist/libero Adam Huang, senior right-side hitter/libero Danny Au, junior defensive specialist Gavin Yu, junior Jeffrey Tam, junior outside hitter/defensive specialist Nicolas Tang, junior setter Hao Lin, sophomore middle blocker Anthony Chiu, senior outside hitter Oliver Smith, junior outside hitter Liam Bailey, senior setter Liem Nguyen, junior outside hitter/setter Nathan Caldwell, junior middle blocker Dylan Clifford, and sophomore right-side hitter Cameron Johnston. The team's head coach is Megan Johnston.

After defeating Fitchburg, the Raiders advanced to the Round of 16 where they were set to host No. 16 Minnechaug Regional Wednesday at 6 p.m.

Quincy Boys' Volleyball Bows To Brookline In Div. 1 Tourney

By TOM JOYCE

The Quincy High boys' volleyball team faced a tough opponent in its opening round playoff match-up.

The Presidents, who were the 16 seed in the MIAA Division 1 boys' volleyball tournament, hosted No. 17 Brookline June 2. Most of the sets were highly competitive, but the Presidents came up short in this one. The Presidents lost the match 3-1. With the loss, the Presidents season came to an end; they finished the season with a record of 12-9.

Brookline took the first two points of the first set before Adam Bonica got the Presidents on the scoreboard with a kill. Although a spike from Tony Le made it a 3-2 game with the Presidents trailing by one point, Brookline pulled away in this set; it was their most dominant one of the match. Brookline went on to win the set 25-10.

The other three sets were far more competitive than this one.

The Presidents recovered with a set win of their own right after the loss. They took the second set 25-19 to tie the game at one apiece.

The set was tied at 16 apiece, but the Presidents pulled ahead with a 4-0 run.

Brookline had a serving error, giving the Presidents the first point. After that, the Presidents got two strong serves out of Malik Justice that Brookline failed to return; those back-to-back aces gave the team a 19-16 lead. And a kill from Le gave the Presidents a four-point edge. The Presidents went on to win the set 25-19 after scoring back-to-back points. The final point of the set came from a kill by John Alessandro.

Brookline bounced back from that set loss, however. The team took a 20-14 lead late in the third set, but the Presidents weren't done fighting; they went on a 3-0 run to make it 20-17. Bonica started it off with a kill and the Presidents got two more points thanks to hitting errors committed by Brookline with Mahki Justice serving for the Presidents.

Ultimately, Brookline went on to win the set 25-20; each team got three points, but then Brookline got back-to-back points to end the set. The final point of the set came on a kill.

Brookline got off to a hot start in the fourth set; it went on a 5-1 run, forcing the Presidents to call a timeout. Brookline kept that momentum going after the timeout, going on a 6-1 run to take an 11-2 lead.

Although the Presidents matched their opponent's offensive output after that -- both sides scored 14 points -- they lost the set 25-16. This ended the game and the Presidents' season.

The loss snapped a three-game winning streak for the Presidents; they finished off their regular season with 3-0 wins against Braintree on May 20, Weymouth on May 24, and Barnstable on May 26.

Not only that, but the team had a strong performance late in the regular season overall to ensure themselves a spot in the MIAA postseason tournament – and a home playoff game. They won five out of their last six regular season games this spring. Before that streak, they were 7-7 on the season and were on a three-game losing streak.

And while the fourth and final set of the contest was also competitive, Brookline was able to win it.

Now that the Presidents' season has come to a close, their team will look much different next year. They were an experienced team this spring with 14 seniors on the roster; the roster had 16 players on it this season, meaning that they could have two players returning

'Sing For Their Supper' Returns June 12

On Sunday afternoon June 12 at 3 p.m. Milton Community Concerts presents the seventh annual "Sing For Their Supper" benefit concert at the historic First Parish Church of Milton, 535 Canton Ave.

This popular event will feature 10 opera singers from around New England in a program of opera and musical theater favorites to support two local charities.

This year's concert features a completely new lineup of artists: sopranos Rochelle Bard, Mary Letellier, Olga Lisovskaya, Brianna Robinson, and Emily Tweedy; mezzo-soprano Roselin Osser; tenors Giovanni Formisano, Wesley Hunter, and Francis Rogers; and baritone Philip Lima. They will be assisted by pianist Timothy Steele. Collectively they have sung roles with many notable opera companies, both nationally and internationally. They have sung in prestigious venues such as Carnegie Hall, and regularly in venues around New England. They also have distinguished careers as recitalists and concert artists.

This is a free concert (no tickets needed) with all net proceeds collected from a free-will offering to benefit the Milton Food Pantry and Milton Residents Fund. All performers are donating their time and talent to support these two important charities.

Arrive early for best seating. There is ample parking available and the venue is accessible. Masks are required for all audience members.

This concert series is partially supported by a generous grant from the Milton Cultural Council, a part of the Massachusetts Cultural Council.

Rheault, Sheehan Dominate; Burgin Gets 6th Win

Burgin Platner put on an offensive clinic June 4th at Quarry Hills Baseball Complex. Led by first baseman Jimmy Rheault and catcher Kieran Sheehan (both with 4 RBI), Burgin was able to plate 12 runs in 6 innings in Cal Ripkin Minors action.

Pitchers Diego Suarez and Aiden Davenport combined for the win, and Burgin is now poised to control the one seed for the upcoming playoffs.

Jimmy Rheault has been seemingly unstoppable at the plate lately. He's also mastered two defensive positions, catcher and first base. Sheehan is a tall, hard hitting infielder who has contributed on the mound as well.

Lead off man Mark Bryant added two more runs scored and two more RBI while adding to his team leading on base percentage. Julian Christianson made two key defensive plays and Alex Nadworny kept up his base stealing streak.

Evin Kilcoyne and Tommy Burns have been very versatile for the ball club: playing all over the diamond while batting in multiple spots in the lineup. Julian Anderson is 3 for his last 6 at bats and has sparked two rallies with timely hitting for Burgin – now 6-2-1.

Jude Henderson has reached base safely in all 9 of the teams games thus far and fan favorite Jack Potter Moraes continues to make positive strides in the batters box.

"We are playing good, smart baseball," said manager Kevin Bryant. "The kids are having fun and that's the main goal."

Quincy Point Congregational Church

All are welcome to join either in-person or "live stream" worship at 10 a.m. on Sunday, June 12 at Quincy Point Congregational Church, 444 Washington St.

The live stream can be viewed on the church Facebook and YouTube pages and at www.quincypointcong.org. The sanctuary is air-conditioned and there is an elevator on the Abbey Road side of the building, complete with accessible parking. Coffee and light refreshments are served in the downstairs Social Hall after worship.

Did you get your tickets yet for a Picnic Party in the Parking Lot on June 18 at 6 p.m. at the corner of Southern Artery and Washington (444 Washington St.) featuring bluegrass band, The Southern Rail? The fundraiser benefits Interfaith Social Services and World Central Kitchen. Visit Eventbrite.com or call the church office at 617-773-6424. Food options included with ticket price: hamburgers, hot dogs, pulled pork, veggie burgers, potato salad, coleslaw, and mac and cheese. Frozen Freddie's Ice Cream will be available. There are some raffles too like a bird-watching box complete with binoculars that can be connected to your smartphone for photos of our feathered friends or the Great Grilling Bucket with over 15 essential items, sauces and cookbooks.

We welcome everyone to Find the Beauty in the Ordinary in the Q. This Summer Arts-Photography Initiative is an all-ages photography project. The church is looking for photos of ordinary places, objects or things -- anything at all. Photograph them in such a way as to bring out their inherent beauty or interest.

Check out some examples on the church's social media. Submit photographs to Instagram with hashtag #Quincyfindingbeauty and tag the church @quincypointcong, or direct message us on Instagram, or email us at: office@quincypointcong.org. We/you can share on other social media outlets also like Facebook or Twitter. If you know any photographers that might be interested in contributing, let them know. Have fun looking at all the everyday things in Quincy in a different light.

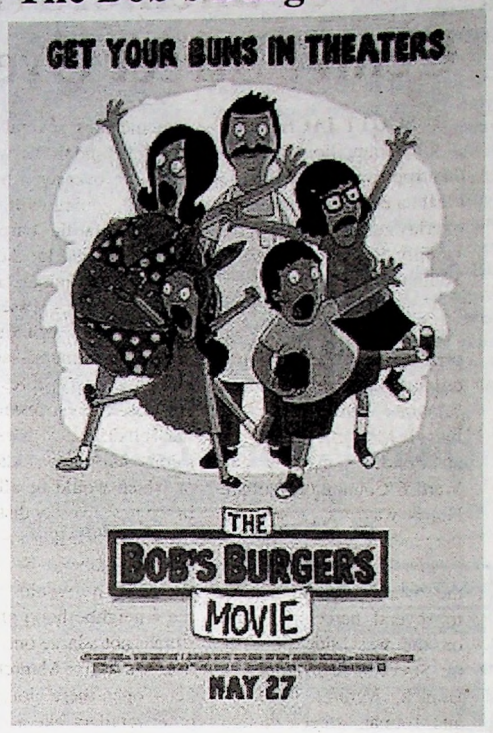
Movie Review: 'The Bob's Burgers Movie'

By BOB GARVER



Since premiering in 2011, "Bob's Burgers" has very quietly become an invaluable part of Fox's Sunday night animation lineup. In fact, it has become the best part.

By which I mean that current-era "Bob's Burgers" is better than current-era "Family Guy" or "The Simpsons," though '90s "Simpsons" is something of an all-time champion. Now struggling restaurant owner Bob Belcher and his family have made the jump to the big screen, and the result is predictably funny and enjoyable.

Bob (H. Jon Benjamin) and his wife Linda (John Roberts) are hoping to get an extension on a bank loan so they can keep their restaurant open for its best summer ever. The extension is curtly denied, and the family has just a week to make payment or they'll be shut down. Bob will have to sell a lot of burgers to make the payment, but the start of summer means the start of tourist season, so they might just pull it off. But then a huge sinkhole opens up in front of the restaurant, blocking its entrance, which means the family can sell zero burgers. Bob's friend Larry (Larry Murphy) tries to set them up with a cart so they can sell burgers at the nearby boardwalk, but they don't have a vendor's license the local carnies aren't exactly welcoming.

Bob's kids have their own plans for the start of summer. Teenage daughter Tina (Dan Mintz) wants to work up the courage to kiss a boy. Son Gene (Eugene Mirman) wants his band (with a pun name worthy of the series' reputation for awesome pun names) to play in a nearby amphitheater. Youngest daughter Louise (Kristen Schaal) wants to prove she's not a baby after another girl points out that she's afraid to be separated from her trademark bunny ears.

Louise decides that the key to proving her bravery is to explore the sinkhole, which results in the discovery of a dead body. Louise freaks out and is humiliated, the sinkhole can't be filled in because it's now a crime scene, and the family's landlord Calvin Fishoeder (Kevin Kline) is arrested for murder. The kids undertake the task of proving Mr. Fishoeder's innocence, since his incarceration will mean the end of the restaurant regardless of the situation with the bank. They suspect Mr. Fishoeder's no-good brother Felix (Zach Galifianakis) of being the real murderer, though I had my sights on the brothers' cousin Grover (David Wain), simply because I thought he was a character exclusive to the movie (I was wrong, he has in fact been in two episodes of the show).

The way to tell the movie apart from the show is its length (of course), some more ambitious animation during driving sequences, and more elaborate musical numbers. The show is known for containing either original or parody songs in almost every episode, but they've never been belted out quite like they are here. It turns out that Roberts in particular has a surprisingly lovely singing voice. I found myself wondering if the opening number could somehow be dragged out for the whole movie.

The murder mystery stuff isn't all that enthralling in "The Bob's Burgers Movie," which is a shame because it dominates the last act and the movie takes itself too seriously for a bit. But you'll get plenty of what you came for here, with creative wordplay and clever asides around almost every turn. I understand why "Top Gun: Maverick" has made more money than "The Bob's Burgers Movie," but the latter had a much more responsive audience at the screening I attended, even if there were fewer people. This was the most fun I'd had at the movies... maybe all year.

Grade: B

"The Bob's Burgers Movie" is rated PG-13 for rude/suggestive material and language. Its running time is 102 minutes.

AAA: Massachusetts Gas Prices Up 23 Cents In One Week; Average $4.96 Per Gallon

Massachusetts's average gas price is up 23 cents from last week ($4.73), averaging $4.96 per gallon. Monday's price is 66 cents higher than a month ago ($4.30), and $2.03 higher than June 6, 2021 ($2.93).

Massachusetts's average gas price is 10 cents higher than the national average.

The cost of a barrel of oil is nearing $120, nearly double from last August, as increased oil demand outpaces the tight global supply. Meanwhile, domestic gasoline demand rose last week in the wake of a robust Memorial Day weekend of travel. As a result, the national average for a gallon of gas surged 25 cents in one week to hit $4.86.

"People are still fueling up, despite these high prices," said Mary Maguire, AAA Northeast director of Public and Government Affairs. "At some point, drivers may change their daily driving habits or lifestyle due to these high prices, but we are not there yet."

AAA Northeast's June 6 survey of fuel prices found the current national average to be 25 cents higher than last week ($4.61), averaging $4.86 a gallon. Monday's national average price is 59 cents higher than a month ago ($4.27), and $1.81 higher than this day last year ($3.05).

Councillors Approve Centre Street Overlay Zoning

By SCOTT JACKSON

City councillors on Monday approved a proposal to create a new transit-oriented overlay zoning district in the vicinity of Centre Street in South Quincy.

Councillors approved the overlay district in the area, proposed by Ward 4 Councillor Brian Palmucci, in a 7-0 vote. Ward 1 Councillor David McCarthy was not at Monday's meeting and Ward 6 Councillor William Harris was not present for the vote.

Palmucci's proposal adds the overlay zoning district to several parcels of land on the west side of Centre Street in the vicinity of Branch, Vernon, Rodman and Totman streets, though the entire block will not be added to the overlay district. The area is presently zoned Industrial A.

Palmucci said the bulk of the area to be incorporated into the overlay district is owned by Monti Granite and Schlager Auto Body, both of which are located on Centre Street. The district also includes several businesses behind those two.

The overlay transit-oriented zoning will allow better use of the parcels in the future than Industrial A would allow, Palmucci said. A number of businesses cannot operate in an Industrial A district, Palmucci said, including grocery stores, convenience stores, restaurants that sell drinks, barbershops, salons and newsstands – all of which would be allowed in the new overlay district.

The councillor said the area is likely to be developed and he would like to see a neighborhood grocery store – not a large one like a Star Market or Market Basket – open there along with other retailers like a restaurant or ice cream stand.

"Rather than some dense housing development that gives no benefit to anybody who already lives in the neighborhood, this would allow a project to incorporate actual benefits to the residents that live there," Palmucci said.

"The key here for me and why I introduced it, is I want to make sure that any development that happens there benefits existing residents."

A public process will take place before any new development can occur in the area, Palmucci said, including community meetings and hearings before the city's Planning Board. A minimum lot size of one-acre is required for any applicant to seek to take advantage of the overlay zoning; Palmucci said he did not believe any parcels in the district currently meet that requirement.

City councillors in 2016 approved creating a transit-oriented overlay zoning district in the vicinity of the North Quincy MBTA station. They did not at that time add overlay districts in the area of the Quincy Adams or Wollaston Stations.

The ordinance approved Monday extends the same overlay zoning in place at the North Quincy station to the new district along Centre Street.

Eminent Domain Eyed For Temporary Animal Shelter

By SCOTT JACKSON

Mayor Thomas Koch is seeking to use eminent domain to acquire a leasehold interest in a 2.7-acre area of land in Squantum that would a provide a temporary home for the Quincy Animal Shelter.

The land in question is located in the vicinity of 400 and 420 East Squantum Street.

Koch introduced the taking order for that land at Monday night's City Council meeting. The item was referred to committee for discussion at a future date.

Koch's chief of staff, Chris Walker, referred to the eminent domain order as a "legal housekeeping measure" and said more information would be provided at a June 15 finance committee meeting, when councillors will discuss a bond request for the new animal shelter.

Councillor Anne Mahoney said the city has already begun to renovate the building that will house the temporary animal shelter, which Walker confirmed.

The Quincy Animal Shelter, located on Broad Street, will be relocated to a site on Quarry Street near the city's dog park. The site on Broad Street will be incorporated into the site of the city's new public safety headquarters, which is being built in the vicinity of the current police station at 1 Sea St.

Koch on May 16 introduced a $15 million bond to pay for construction of the new animal shelter and associated costs. At the same time Koch also introduced a $7 million bond to pay for improvements to city buildings and land a $3 million bond to purchase new vehicles and equipment. All three bonds will be discussed at the June 15 meeting.

City councillors in 2017 approved a $3.55 million bond for the new animal shelter – half of the $7.1 million Koch originally sought for the project. Councillors at the time were hesitant to pony up the full amount sought for the new animal shelter while the designs of the facility were not yet complete, and also expressed concern about the size of the project.

Quincy College Seeking Candidates For Upcoming Openings On Board Of Governors

Quincy College is seeking candidates to fill three upcoming vacancies on its 13-member Board of Governors.

Governors each serve six-year terms, act as advocates for the institution and have certain statutory governance and oversight responsibilities. They are expected to attend and participate in regular monthly Board and committee meetings (typically scheduled in the evening), participate in various College ceremonial events including Commencement and demonstrate an overall commitment to the mission and purpose of the institution.

Members of the Board of Governors must submit an annual financial disclosure form, complete ethics training, and adhere to the state's Open Meeting Law. They are not required to be residents of the City of Quincy.

The Board's Appointing Council encourages diversity in candidates and welcomes applications from those whose personal experiences and professional expertise will contribute positively to the College's continued growth and success.

Candidates may apply by mail before June 30 by sending a letter expressing interest and a resume to:

Quincy College Board of Governors, c/o President's Office, 1250 Hancock St., Quincy, MA 02169; or candidates may submit by e-mail to qcboard@quincycollege.edu.

Norfolk County Sheriff's Office To Host Summer Safety Fest At Merrymount Beach

Norfolk County Sheriff Patrick McDermott announces his office will be hosting a series of "Sheriff's Summer Safety Fests" across Norfolk County this summer that will provide opportunities for residents to gather for fun summer activities and resources for enjoying the summer safely.

Working closely with community partners, the NCSO has a day of demonstrations, games, and resources around swim, bike, and fire safety.

"Massachusetts is a wonderful place in the summertime, especially because of our access to some of the region's best natural resources," said Sheriff McDermott. "This Sheriff's Summer Safety Fest is a great chance for families to come together to enjoy some fun summer activities, including a Touch-a-Truck event, while also learning how to take advantage of our state's natural resources in a fun and safe way."

Three Sheriff's Summer Safety Fests are planned in Norfolk County this summer, in June, July, and August. Each event is free and open to the public and will include local community organizations, public safety resources, and a variety of games and activities for all ages. The Norfolk County Central Labor Council is also conducting food drives at each event in coordination with United Way, and attendees are encouraged to bring a donation of non-perishable food items to help families who may be facing food insecurity in Norfolk County.

The first Sheriff's Summer Safety Fest will take place on Saturday, June 18th, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., at Merrymount Beach along Shore Ave. in Quincy. Additional events in July and August will take place in towns across Norfolk County and will be announced as they are scheduled.

Fundraiser Saturday To Benefit Disabled Vets Day Fishing Outing

Harvey's Salt Water Fishing Club will hold a fundraising event Saturday, June 11 at the Town River Yacht Club, 60 Mound St., Quincy.

The event will feature DJ music, buffet and raffle prizes. Proceeds will benefit the Disabled Veterans Fishing Outing to be held in July.

Harvey's Fishing Club has provided a day out of the hospital and on the water fishing for up to 200 Disabled Veterans from six veterans hospitals and two disabled veterans organizations. The Disabled Veterans will be the guests aboard 20 lobster boats provided by local lobstermen.

For some disabled veterans this will be the only day out of the hospital on an outing.

"This year is special, not only because it marks the 63rd anniversary of this great event but because our disabled veterans have been locked in a hospital for the last two years," Michael Cheney said. "Please join us on June 11th at the Town River Yacht Club for a fun night in honor of our disabled veterans."

For additional information contact: Mike Cheney at (617) 592-2501 or Cheneycom@aol.com.

St. Yves School Fundraiser Great Success For Great Cause

Shalom Peace everyone.

On May 15, the fundraising for Saint Yves School Haiti was celebrated at the Knights of Columbus in North Quincy. We thank God for the success of the event which took place after two years of absence.

This year the celebration took place in the midst of a very tough situation of genocide taking place in Haiti. Yet the success of the St. Yves School fundraising brings a ray of sunshine in the life of the children and staff of Saint Yves School.

In this time, joy and peace are so much in need in Haiti. In the past two weeks there have been in Haiti many lost of civilian lives. This is due to gang fights between two groups of bandits the 400 Marozo and Chien Mechant. Over 150 people have been killed due to those unrests and thousands throughout the capital Port-au-Prince have to flee their homes.

Our children can barely attend school according to Principal Jacques Robert at St. Yves School. Enough is enough. Those providing those guns and munitions must stop. The world can not stay indifferent to such a terrible situation happening right in front of big powers capable to stop this flow of violence right next door to them. God is watching and heaven is in tears and there will be judgment.

MR. AND MRS. VINCENT from Africa were among the supporters at the recent fundraiser to benefit Saint Yves School in Haiti.

Our thanks to all in Quincy and Dorchester who made this event a great fun for a wonderful cause. Our thanks to all our benefactors and especially to Mrs. Gail MacDonald and husband Jeb who work tirelessly to prepare the beautiful raffle baskets. Our thanks to Mrs. Elsie Laguerre, Mrs. Gladys Fernandez and Mrs. Julie Berberan who also spent a lot of energy to make the event a success.

Our thanks and Happy feast of St. Yves to the attorneys who supported us: Robert Dolbec and Jimmy Gavigan. Thanks you to the Chinese community and especially to the dancers of stars who came in great number and filled the Knights of Columbus.

Thanks Mr. and Mrs. Lynn and Star Dance. Our thanks to all our benefactors, the Haitian Consulate in Boston, the Knights of Columbus, Mr. Frank and Mr. Pat, Gennaro's Eatery, Roxie's Supermarket, Mr. Ed and Mr. Al Fratelli, Stop and Shop Supermarket, Mineike Southern Artery Mr. Cris manager; Wendy's Newport Ave., Cathay Pacific Manager Peter, Mrs. Denise Reneghan and Bay State Charitable fund; Dr. and Mrs. Susan Bill, Dr. Marc and Mrs. Cris Jeannings, Mrs. Edie Donovan, Mrs. Marie Conron, Mrs. Jean Ward, Mrs. Marie Dowling, Mr. Larry and Mrs. Leah Shea, Mr. John Fabello, Mrs. Joella Sarruda, Mr. Peter and Mrs. Sue Graceffa Mr Billy Smith, Mrs. Claire and Theresa Lamoder, Mrs. Sally, Mrs. Ruthie Kearns, Mrs. Ellen O'Neil, Mrs. Cindy Mullen, Mrs. Laura Mullen, QATV Mr. John Caliri, Mr Joe, Mr. Michael Jarvie, Mr. Cris, Mr. Ryan Mac Wade, Mr. Mark Crosby, Mrs. Jaqueline and Mr. Vincent, Mr. and Mrs. Setow, Mr. Dio Covias The Quincy Sun Mr. Bob and staff. Our thanks to Father Dan Finn, our great supporter for St. Yves School and Happy 50th year of priesthood.

All donations up to each penny goes to the school. The annual fundraising helps us to add to the school as well as to pay partially for the teachers of the first second and third grade so that the children in those grades can go to school free of charge. Until recently the school welcomes close to 500 children in two sessions.

Our thanks to Principal Professor Jacques Robert Jean Louis, administrator Mr. Joseph Jean, Assistant Mr. Suze Nlemba and Professor Jean Philippe who run the school in Haiti. Donations to the St. Yves School fundraising can be made by writing a check to the St. Yves School Foundation and mailed to P.O. Box 60 Wollaston, MA 02170.

Thanks to all who participated. It was a great fun for a great cause. Please keep Haiti and St. Yves School in prayers as we pray for the people of Ukraine, of Burma of Burkina Faso, Venezuela, Jerusalem and all the troubled parts of the world. With God's and Quincy's help St. Yves and Haiti will be restored.

Shalom Peace,

Marie Denise

Dear Heart of Jesus, in the past, I have asked for many favors.

This time, I ask you this very special favor (mention favor). Take it dear Heart of Jesus, and place it within your own broken heart where your father sees it. Then in his merciful eyes it will become your favor, not mine.

Amen.

Eileen F. Cavanagh, 61

Eileen Fitzgerald Cavanagh, age 61, passed away, Monday, May 30, 2022, in the comfort of her home in Quincy, surrounded by her four devoted children. Eileen courageously battled co-existing diagnoses of Huntington's Disease and brain cancer in recent months. She did so with the same unwavering faith and strength that she displayed throughout her life.

EILEEN F. CAVANAGH

Eileen was born in New Britain, Conn. and spent most of her life on the South Shore of Massachusetts. She attended Notre Dame Academy in Hingham and is a proud alumnus of Northeastern University (BSN) and Suffolk University (MPA). Eileen found her passion working within the OBGYN Department of Brigham and Women's Hospital for over 30 years.

Eileen will be warmly welcomed into eternal life by the love of her life, her late husband Kevin Cavanagh, as well as her best friend and sister, Mary Ellen Nevins. Eileen will also be joining her late parents, Laurence and Patricia Fitzgerald. Eileen will be deeply missed by her loving children: Conor and Cindy of Weymouth, Kerry and Patrick of Boston, Erin and Guillermo of Boston, Sean of Quincy, and her beautiful granddaughter Cassidy. Eileen will also be missed by her many additional communities of loved ones, including her dear nieces and nephews, in-laws, cousins, neighbors, and friends who we consider family.

A Funeral Mass was celebrated in Holy Trinity Parish at Our Lady of Good Counsel Church, 227 Sea St., Quincy, on Friday, June 3. Eileen's interment will take place privately.

For those who wish, donations in Eileen's memory may be made to The Huntington's Disease Society of America, by visiting: https://app.donorview.com/FundRaiser/CampaignInfo?prm=tqITQp5N0w3BYK94HwsDgB1WosiCtMQprdkQ_yrGx2fJMJ-MHmXx2ZGQ8D-NYz-ID95O7AnDE0R-1zUQD0mvQFQ_NKH-NEzi1X7SqAthLR9N-9Vo0i1gJS11nh9luUI-blA0RhUJk16VAZ8vLu3fuW2ZMpAam313spH0TOumt52bAIShUj1uaHvg-8fMWy06A1j5Tk67ril-gdNAoAO6m5Pw3_j6pvwG_nxVIXkum0I-VzTS_O1Gf9hY-xYEjeOJiQNo3TN0&fbclid=IwAR2uUyuUsZc7eBx3Ot1ZJXiy94EBW2DmSEzvXShI_0Z0w_bO5luZUR1Ox64

Antoinette McCarthy, 68

Antoinette "Toni" McCarthy, a lifelong resident of Quincy, passed away surrounded by her loving family on Sunday, May 29, 2022, after a long battle with pulmonary fibrosis. She was 68.

ANTOINETTE McCARTHY

Toni was born in Boston to the late Leo P. Nunnari and Anna M. "Mary" (Robilotto) and raised in the Wollaston area of Quincy. After graduating from North Quincy High School, she started working at AT&T. After leaving the workforce to be a stay-at-home mom, she then started working in banking as a teller at US Trust. Toni ended her career in 2009 when she retired from the account collections department at Bank of America.

In the last decade of her life, Toni became a homebody but that didn't stop her from having fun. All throughout her life she enjoyed eating dinners out, spending time with family and the occasional trip to Las Vegas. She had an excellent sense of humor which made for great company.

Beloved mother of Michelle McCarthy and her wife Margaret Peachy of Roslindale and Izzy McCarthy and her partner Cory Cadima of Denver, CO. Loving sister of Jean Peachey and her husband James, and Lisa Nunnari and her partner Thomas Snow. She is also survived by many nieces and nephews, including grand nieces and nephews.

Toni is predeceased by her sister Ann-Marie Nunnari and brother Thomas Nunnari.

A funeral service was celebrated on Saturday, June 4, 2022, in Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Quincy. Cremation followed.

In lieu of flowers, donations in memory of Toni may be made to Pulmonary Fibrosis Foundation, 230 East Ohio St., Suite 500, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Please see Keohane.com for directions and online condolences.

Gary F. Caruso, 80

Gary F. Caruso, age 80, a longtime Quincy resident, died peacefully, Monday, May 30, 2022, in the comfort of his home, surrounded by his loving family.

GARY F. CARUSO

Gary was born in Quincy, to the late Ernest E. Caruso and Ada T. (Ruscitto) Cardinale. He was also step-son of the late John Cardinale and Doris M. (Perry) Caruso. Raised and educated in Quincy and Braintree, he was a graduate of Archbishop Williams High School, Class of 1959.

He proudly served in the Army National Guard of Massachusetts in the 1960s.

Gary was the owner and operator of the former Caruso's Fruit and Produce Company for over twenty years, supplying many local restaurants and food outlets. Most recently, Gary worked as the produce manager for Previte's Marketplace in Weymouth for over ten years. As a young man, he was employed in his family's business, Caruso Jeweler's in South Braintree, for twenty years.

He loved fishing and tending to his backyard tomato garden. He was an antique car enthusiast and spent many hours restoring his prized 1955 Chevy.

Most of all, Gary was devoted to his family and especially his much-loved grandchildren, supporting all their many activities and accomplishments.

Beloved husband for thirty-four years of Heather D. (Morison) Caruso. Previously, he was husband of the late Janice M. "Janie" (Balducci) Caruso. Devoted father of Garry A. Caruso of Nantucket, Kristin L. Emond and her husband Marc of Carver, Peter E. Caruso and his fiancée Katie Voci of Duxbury, Sarah A. Cavanaugh and her husband Chad of Milton, Thomas J. Caruso and his wife Hillary of Quincy. Brother of Susan Cardinale Budesheim of Penn. and the late Paul E. Caruso.

Visiting hours were held at the Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave, Quincy on Sunday, June 5. A Funeral Mass was celebrated in Saint John the Baptist Church, 44 School St., Quincy, on Monday, June 6. Interment, with military honors, at Mount Wollaston Cemetery, Quincy.

For those who wish, donations in Gary's memory may be made to the Hospice of the South Shore, 30 Reservoir Park Dr., Rockland, MA 02370.

Michael A. D'Andrea, 63

MICHAEL A. D'ANDREA

Michael A. D'Andrea, a lifelong resident of Quincy, passed away peacefully surrounded by his loving family on Monday, May 30, 2022, after a courageous battle with pancreatic cancer. He was 63. Michael graduated from Quincy Vocational School in 1977. He was a member of the South Quincy Bocce Club.

Michael had many interests, some of which included boating, riding his motorcycle, and snowmobiling. He also enjoyed the simple things in life such as floating on the lake in Laconia and sitting by the fire with family and friends. He built D'Andrea Foods, a successful business that expanded over thirty years. He then merged companies with Carl Crocetti of Crocetti Oakdale Packing Co. They went on to pursue other business ventures for the next several years until Carl's passing in 2016. He then collaborated with Carlo Crocetti. Michael retired, selling the business so he could enjoy spending time with loved ones.

Michael was born in Quincy to Michael and the late Shirley (Middendorf) D'Andrea, both of Quincy. Michael is survived by his wife Joanne (Stoker). Father of Rachel Drum and her husband Justin and Michael D'Andrea. Beloved Papa to Collins Aurora Drum. He was a caring brother to Cindy D'Andrea of Holbrook, John D'Andrea and his long time partner Elizabeth Harrington of Sagamore, Laura (D'Andrea) and her husband Norman Conway of Haverhill. He was the devoted uncle to many nieces and nephews.

Visiting hours were held Monday in the Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock Street, Quincy.

A Celebration of Life service was held at the funeral home on Tuesday prior to the Funeral Mass at St. John's Church, 44 School St., Quincy. Burial in Pine Hill Cemetery, Quincy.

In lieu of flowers, the family requests donations directed to Pancreatic Cancer Action Network and Old Colony Hospice.

See Keohane.com for directions and online condolences.

Sheila M. Young, 60

SHEILA M. YOUNG

Sheila M. (Moriarty) Young, of Milton, died peacefully on Friday, June 3, 2022, at the Beth Israel Deaconess Medical Center in Boston. She was 60.

Born in Milton on July 25, 1961, she was the daughter of the late Donald J. and Lucille M. (Donohue) Moriarty. Sheila was raised in Milton, attended local schools, and graduated high school with the Class of 1979. She continued her education and earned her undergraduate degree. Sheila later went to work as a receptionist and nurse in the veterinary industry. She loved her work and the relationships she built throughout the years.

Sheila enjoyed many hobbies, especially anything to do with animals. She loved reading and gardening. Sheila loved all works by Shakespeare and could recite many of his poems and sonnets. To those who knew her, she would be best remembered for her spunky attitude, unique sense of humor and compassionate heart.

Sheila is survived by her beloved children, Derek M. Young of Everett and Leanne R. Young of Taunton. She was dearly loved by her siblings, the late John T. Moriarty and his spouse Kathleen, her brother Paul F. Moriarty and his wife Janet, her sister Claire M. Omogrosso and her late husband Joseph, and her devoted sister Patricia A. Murphy and her husband Paul. She is survived by many loving nieces and nephews. She is predeceased by her loyal and loving companion, Maxx.

Relatives and friends are respectfully invited to greet the family during the visiting hours on Wednesday, June 8, 2022, 4-8 p.m. in the Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Quincy.

A Celebration of Life Service will be held in the funeral home at 9 a.m. on Thursday, June 9, 2022, prior to the Funeral Mass in St. Gregory Parish, Dorchester, at 10 a.m.

Interment will be held privately at a later date.

Donna L. Uvanitte

Donna L. (Carlson) Uvanitte, of Quincy, died suddenly May 30, 2022, surrounded by her loving family.

Donna's life centered around doing for others, and especially her cherished family including her husband, son, and grand-daughter. She took great pride in planning all the family trips including numerous trips throughout all of Europe, Asia, South America, Scandinavia, the Middle East and Israel, the Baltics, Hawaii, numerous cruises, and over 60 trips to her One Happy Island of Aruba. Her Summers were spent at her vacation home at Lake Winnipesaukee, New Hampshire boating and enjoying the beaches and restaurants in the evening. The final days of Summer were spent at Cape Cod in Dennis with many family and friends, cooking lobsters and steamers, enjoying bonfires on the beach at night with family sing-a-longs playing Beach Boys songs and other rock and roll songs and a friend strumming a guitar for background music. All the nieces and nephews enjoyed cooking marshmallows while the music played on. Donna also enjoyed camping on and visiting the Boston Harbor Islands. In the Winter Donna enjoyed skiing in New Hampshire and teaching her nieces and nephews to ski. Donna was also a Den Mother for Cub Scouts at her home and continued to be involved with the Boy Scouts later.

Donna was a devout Catholic with strong faith and had a close relationship with the Sisters of Charity of Halifax. She enjoyed rides to Wellesley with friends to visit elderly retired nuns. She was passionate about her volunteer work with the South Shore Blind Center and caring for their needs and friendship.

Beloved wife of 44 years to Donald P. Uvanitte of Quincy, her son, Shawn and daughter-in-law Michelle, and Grand-daughter Rory. Cherished daughter of the late Walter Carlson and Grace (Merritt) Carlson. Loving sister of Carol Bruce of Quincy, Signe Kelcourse and her husband Russell of Quincy, and the late Waler Carlson Jr., William Carlson, Richard Carlson, Buddy Stoddard, Patricia Pardo, Florence Traniello, Judy Livingstone, and Karen Garland. Also survived by many nieces and nephews.

Visiting hours were held Sunday in the Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Quincy. A Celebration of Life Service was held in the funeral home on Monday prior to the Funeral Mass in Holy Trinity Parish at Our Lady of Good Counsel Church, Quincy. Burial in Mt. Wollaston Cemetery, Quincy.

In lieu of flowers, donations in memory of Donna may be made to Holy Trinity Parish, 227 Sea St., Quincy, MA 02169.

Barbara Lok

Barbara (Mills) Lok passed away peacefully on Nov. 13, 2021 at the home of her son Stephen Lok of Atlanta, Georgia.

She was born on Sept. 1, 1935 in San Diego, Calif, the daughter of Commander Stewart and Florence Mills. Barbara was a proud survivor of the attack on Pearl Harbor. Her family was stationed at the Naval Base adjacent to Hickam Field on the morning of Dec. 7,1941. Her Dad was on the mainland that morning and began preparing for war. Barbara, her mother and sister LaVerne remained on Hawaii until March of 1942 when they were evacuated to the mainland along with submarine escort. They remained in California until the end of the war. But, not without adventures like swimming in Heddy LaMar's pool!

Following the war, she and her family moved to Connecticut. Barbara graduated from Williams Memorial Institute. She kept up with reunions until her illness. She earned her assoc. degree from Mitchell Junior College. Her love of military life continued when she married Lt. J.G. John Lok. They raised three boys in Concord, Ma.

Years later their lives took separate paths and Barbara followed her passion for animals to Tufts field Station and on to Cornell University College of Veterinary Medicine where she worked as a veterinary technician and where many lifelong friends were made.

After retirement she returned to Ma. and settled in Quincy. There she joined Harvard Animal Health to set up protocols for the animal lab. A second retirement gave her time to devote to her other passions: traveling (Europe and China were just some), pottery, gardening, weaving, and volunteering. She proudly supported and campaigned for Deval Patrick, Gov. of Ma, and Barrack Obama, President of America. Her love of history and gardening led her to Dorothy Quincy Homestead. She found and acquired the Abigail Adams rose bush for the gardens.

Indeed, a life well lived.

She leaves her sons, Thomas of Chicago, David (Audry) of Ma. and Stephen of Ga., her ex. husband John, her sisters LaVerne Metzger and Susan (Thomas) Mickus and brothers Stewart Mills and Richard (Susan) Mills and many neices and nephews and treasured friends.

A celebration of her life will take place at the Dorothy Quincy Homestead on June 18 at 2 p.m.

Any donations in Barbara's memory may be sent to NSCDA-MA, 55 Beacon St., Boston, Ma 02108-3595, checks payable to Friends of Quincy Homestead Garden Fund (In mem, of Barbara Lok).

James Hurley, 67

James Hurley, 67, a lifelong resident of Quincy, died suddenly May 18, 2022.

Jim was born to the late James and Agnes Hurley, also late sister Carol of Ayer, Massachusetts. Jim is survived by his son, Tanner of Huntington Beach, California.

He was employed by Verizon for 30 years. Jim enjoyed watching all Boston sports team and Horse Racing, especially the Triple Crown.

A Celebration of Life will be held at Rag's Tavern at 375 Washington St., Quincy, on Saturday June 18, 2022 at 2 p.m., following to the Funeral Mass at St Ann's Church, Hancock Street, at 1 p.m.

Arrangements were completed by the Keohane Funeral Home.

School Year's End Collides With '100 Deadliest Days' For Nation's Teens

Nationwide, 7,124 people died in crashes involving teen drivers from 2011 to 2020 during the "100 Deadliest Days," the hazardous summer months between Memorial Day and Labor Day. That's more than seven people a day each summer.

Last year, deaths increased by nearly 20 percent over 2019 with 850 people killed in teen-involved crashes across the country.

In Massachusetts, 45 people were killed in crashes involving teen drivers during the "100 Deadliest Days" from 2011 to 2020. Compared to the rest of the year, the spike in crashes and deaths in the summer months is apparent: on average, 35 percent of teen-related fatalities in the Bay State happened during those three months.

The disproportionate number of teen driving crashes in the summer comes as teens have more freedom to drive and socialize while school is out of session. AAA research shows that teens tend to engage in riskier behaviors like speeding and aggressive driving more frequently than older, more experienced drivers. AAA studies also show that when a teen driver has only teen passengers in their vehicle, the fatality rate for all people involved in a crash increases by 51 percent.

The risk of being killed in a crash increases exponentially as more teens ride together in a vehicle without an adult older than 35 in the vehicle. A teen's risk of dying in a crash increases by 44 percent with one passenger, doubles when carrying two passengers, and quadruples when carrying three or more passengers under 21.

It's critically important for families to agree to clear rules about safe driving before a teen gets behind the wheel.

"There are more daily deaths in crashes involving teen drivers during the summer months than the rest of the year because teens tend to have more unstructured time behind the wheel," said Mary Maguire, Director of Public and Government Affairs at AAA Northeast. "We can require our young drivers to comply with passenger restriction laws, to eliminate distractions and stay focused when driving, to always wear a seat belt, and to drive within posted speed limits. And it's never too soon to educate teens on the dangers of the impairing effects of alcohol and marijuana. But actions speak louder than words. Remember to model good behavior as an adult driver because your teen won't take your advice seriously if you don't follow it yourself."

To support parents in communicating with their teens on driving safety. AAA Northeast has resources online at AAA.com/DeadliestDays and on the club's YouTube page.

Due to their inexperience, teen drivers are at a higher risk for crashes. According to the AAA Foundation Traffic Safety Culture Index, about 72% of teen drivers aged 16-18 admitted to having engaged in at least one of the following risky behaviors in the past 30 days:

- Driving 10 mph over the speed limit on a residential street (47%)
- Driving 15 mph over the speed limit on a freeway (40%)
- Texting (35%)
- Red-light running (32%)
- Aggressive driving (31%)
- Drowsy driving (25%)
- Driving without a seatbelt (17%)

To keep roads safer this summer, AAA encourages parents to:

- Talk with teens early and often about abstaining from dangerous behavior behind the wheel, such as speeding, impairment and distracted driving.
- Teach by example, and minimize risky behavior when driving.
- Establish a parent-teen driving agreement that sets family rules for teen drivers.
- Conduct at least 50 hours of supervised practice driving with their teen prior to the road test but continue to practice driving skills after licensure.

Red Cross Blood Drives June 26, June 27

Each year on June 14, the American Red Cross joins blood collection organizations around the world to celebrate World Blood Donor Day, which recognizes the importance of a safe and stable blood supply and the donors who make it possible.

Nearly 2.5 million people volunteer to give lifesaving blood and platelets every year with the Red Cross. Eligible donors are encouraged to be part of something big by making an appointment to give blood or platelets this month.

Blood donations decline in late spring and early summer – especially during holiday weeks, like Memorial Day and Independence Day – but the need for blood and platelet transfusions doesn't take a summer break. Generous blood and platelet donors are critically important in ensuring lifesaving care is available the moment patients need it.

To schedule an appointment to donate, download the Red Cross Blood Donor App, visit RedCrossBlood.org or call 1-800-RED CROSS (1-800-733-2767).

There are also two American Red Cross blood drives scheduled in Quincy this month.

The first will be held Sunday, June 26 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Islamic Center of New England, 470 South St.

The second is set for Monday, June 27 from 1 to 7 p.m. at the Quincy Sons of Italy Social Center, 120 Quarry St.

As a thank-you for helping, in honor of the new Baz Luhrmann film, Elvis, all who come to give in the month of June will be automatically entered for a chance to win a VIP trip to Graceland for two, including round-trip airfare to Memphis, plus a three-night stay at The Guest House and Elvis Entourage VIP tour, courtesy of Graceland, a custom-wrapped Gibson Epiphone guitar and more. Additionally, those who come to donate June 1-30 will also receive a $5 e-gift card to a merchant of choice. Terms apply. Visit rcblood.org/elvismovie.

AAA: See Clearly, Drive Safely

Good eyesight and the ability to use our eyes effectively by scanning the road is critical to driving safely--and to protecting pedestrians, cyclists, motorcyclists, and fellow motorists. Most of us find that our eyesight declines as we age, and many adults discover that as they get older, their peripheral vision and ability to see clearly at night diminishes.

Traffic deaths and injuries are on the rise in Massachusetts and across the country, and distracted and impaired driving remain persistent problems. Research tells us that 30 percent of drivers and riders don't see as well as they could, and focusing on and scanning the road to anticipate stopping for pedestrians and allowing a safe buffer for cyclists is essential to keeping all road users safe. For all of these reasons, the ability to sharpen and enhance our vision as much as possible is vital.

With that in mind, AAA Northeast is joining LensCrafters to launch a "See Clearly, Drive Safely" campaign that aims to encourage regular eye exams and to correct, protect and enhance the vision of drivers, walkers, and riders. Consumers can shop for eye wear in person or on-line, and LensCrafters can help develop a personalized solution to enhance safe driving and riding for all. Worried about cost? LensCrafters offers significant discounts off eyeware.

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Recently obtained information could open a new opportunity for a career change. But temper that Arian impatience and act on it only when all the facts are made available.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You're moving into a more active cycle. So put your ideas back on the table, where they'll be given the attention they deserve. Expect a favorable change in your love life.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) A friend might ask for a favor that you feel would compromise your values. Best advice: Confront him or her and explain why you must say no. A true friend will understand.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) A relationship continues to develop along positive lines. Meanwhile, a job situation is brewing that could create complications for one of your pet projects. Look into it right away.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Your interest in a co-worker's project could lead to a profitable experience for you both. But before you agree to anything, be sure to get all your legal I's dotted and T's crossed.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Be careful whose counsel you take about a possible long-distance move. Some advice might not necessarily be in your best interest. Stay focused on your goals.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Someone might try to complicate efforts in an attempt to work out that confusing job situation. But don't let that keep you from sticking with your decision to push for a resolution.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) A disagreement on how to handle a family problem could create more trouble for all concerned. Look for ways to cool things down before they boil over.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) An unexpected change in long-standing workplace procedure and policy could provide a new career target for the Archer to aim at. Start making inquiries.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) You're finally able to get back into the swing of things, as those temporary doldrums begin to lift. Expect some surprising disclosures from a new colleague.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Rely on your innate sense of justice to see you through a dilemma involving a family member. Other relatives who've stood back soon will come forward as well.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) A new friend seems to be pushing you to take risks – financial or otherwise. Best advice: Don't do it. They might have a hidden agenda that hasn't surfaced yet.

BORN THIS WEEK: You love to see new places and meet new people. Have you considered working for an airline or cruise-ship company?

HOLLYWOOD

by Tony Rizzo

HOLLYWOOD – The Cannes Film Festival has proclaimed that the next big star is Austin Butler. The Anaheim native cut his acting teeth in 2007 on the Disney Channel in "Hannah Montana" and "iCarly," a run in Broadway's "The Iceman Cometh," the TV series "Switched at Birth" and as Manson family member Tex Watson in "Once Upon a Time...In Hollywood." Now, at 30, he's about to explode in the title role in Baz Luhrmann's "Elvis," with Tom Hanks as Elvis' manager Colonial Parker, premiering June 24. When "Elvis" was screened at Cannes, despite all the competition, it created a sensation.

Next up for Butler is the $250 million Apple TV+ miniseries "Masters of the Air," a World War II drama in the same vein as "Band of Brothers" (2001) and "The Pacific" (2010). The co-production from Tom Hanks and Steven Spielberg also stars Callum Turner, Anthony Boyle, Barry Keoghan and Nate Mann. Butler also stars in the upcoming "Dune: Part Two."

English actor Kit Harington, who became a star as Jon Snow in "Game of Thrones" (2011-2019), is currently shooting "Mary's Monster" as her Frankenstein, a film more about female voices, mental health, gender politics and a disenfranchised youth.

Ryan Gosling's "The Gray Man" dropped on Netflix July 15, and his debut as Ken in the "Barbie" film isn't due until July 2023. But he'll play the title role in a film based on the 1980s Lee Majors/Doug Barr series "The Fall Guy" after a major rewrite, since Dwayne Johnson was originally set to play the Lee Majors role.

Move over Nick Jonas (29), your older brother, Joe (32), is taking on a major film role. Nick made six films, plus two very successful "Jumanji" movies, but Joe only played himself in five films. Now he's set to star in the action war drama "Devotion."

One of his co-stars, Glen Powell, is breaking out because of "Top Gun: Maverick." His earlier films were "The Dark Knight" (2012) and as astronaut John Glenn in "Hidden Figures" (2016). Joe Jonas' other co-star is Jonathan Majors, who scored in the HBO series "Lovecraft," the Disney+ series "Loki" and as Kang the Conqueror in the upcoming "Ant Man and the Wasp: Quantumania," premiering in February 2023.

Rob Reiner has announced "Spinal Tap II," nearly 40 years after the original film opened. Michael McKeon (74), Christopher Guest (74) and Harry Shearer (78) have toured several times through four decades as "Spinal Tap," and now they'll be returning to film the sequel that Reiner (now 75) directs and stars in. Before you think they're too old to play rock stars...take a look at the Rolling Stones (who are between 74 and 78). Some Rolling Stones gather no moss!

KOVELS® Antiques & Collecting

By Terry and Kim Kovel

Canton China — Canton china with its blue and white decoration has been a popular collectible for many years, but few can distinguish it from the other early or modern Chinese blue and white china. It has been popular for centuries partly because cobalt blue coloring was safe to use when decorating dishes. Red ware and pewter contained dangerous lead.

By 1710, the Chinese made at least four patterns of Chinese export porcelain that included landscape designs. Two of the most popular were Nanking (1770-1820) and Canton (1785-1853). Nanking was decorated with a willow tree, boat, teahouse, birds and a fence. Canton had symbolic decorations including a border band of blue and white scallops representing rain and clouds, a bridge, water, rocks, a pagoda, scholar, waterwheel, riverboats or sampans, two kinds of orchid leaves, and a willow tree. Each symbol had a meaning reflecting endurance, harmony in nature, movement, the old leading the young, or life.

There are other unnamed blue and white patterns from the same period and even a similar English willow pattern. Later Canton pieces are thicker, heavier and have less detailed decorations. There are 92 known shapes of Canton including chamber pots, slop pots, plain pitchers, cider jugs, oyster bowls, patty pan bowls (used to bake crust), helmet pitchers, butter dishes, butter pats (five shapes) and hot water plates. Sometimes a color is added over the blue designs. This adds color to the piece but often covers the original blue decorations.

Q: My mother gave a little dish to my father as a hint to stop smoking. When and why was it made, and is it valuable?

A: Your dish is probably part of a set of small ashtrays used at elegant tablecloth dinner parties in the 1900s. Since almost everyone over 18 smoked cigarettes, it was customary to put a small dish or urn at each table that held a few cigarettes and, of course, an ashtray. Between courses and after dinner, it was OK to light a cigarette or even a cigar. The dish was made by Copelan Spode, perhaps as early as 1900 but very popular after 1915. It is in the Italian pattern that is still made by Spode, an English company. The 6-by-9-inch dish was listed recently at $70 to $90 online, and one sold at a show for $58.

Strange BUT TRUE

• Boston College has a policy allowing employees' children to attend for free once they've been accepted. One janitor's five children all made it in, saving the family almost $700,000 in tuition costs.

• At some point, you've probably promised someone you'd "be there in a jiffy," but did you know that's an actual unit of time? 1/100th of a second, to be precise.

• Bob Ross, known for his TV show "The Joy of Painting," received up to 200 fan letters per day. If regular correspondents failed to keep in touch, he would phone them to make sure they were all right.

• The numbers on a roulette wheel, when added together, sum up to 666.

• The Eco Gym in Rochester, New York, uses cardio equipment that harvests energy from members' workouts as a means of reducing energy costs. Savings are passed on to the members as an incentive to keep coming back for regular exercise.

• Women's fashion changed with the invention of cars, when skirts in the 1900s were shortened to allow women to step into automobiles with more ease.

• The "XXX" that is often used to signify "poison" originated from moonshiners, indicating that their alcohol had been run through the still three times and was now pure and strong.

• In Sweden, millennials are known as the "Curling Generation," after the sport in which teammates sweep the ice in front of their stone to guide it, in the same manner as parents of millennials have swept away obstacles from their children's paths.

• Since snowflakes fall at about the rate of 1.5 mph, every one you see has traveled from 45-60 minutes to reach the ground.

Now here's a tip!

by Jo Ann Derson

• Having a yard sale? Here's a great way to put out extra signs when you don't have a way to stake them into the ground: "Write your sign advertising your yard sale on the sides of a big box. Place it where you want it, and add a large rock to the inside, then tape shut. We did this when we had no poles to tape signs to or any other way to get them to stand up. It worked really well!" – D.R. in Georgia

• Avoid calling the pediatrician's office on Monday mornings for routine business. Wait until the afternoon. All the parents with mildly sick children over the weekend will be calling to consult with the doctor and nurses first thing when the office opens.

• If you drop an egg, sprinkle with salt before you attempt to clean it up. The salt binds the whites, which will not spread, making pickup easier!

• "My kids had kind of an obsession with colorful Duck tape in the past year, and we made some "beach bags" to keep our electronics safe at the pool, lake and beach. We carefully covered a variety of sizes of zipper-top self-sealing bags with the tape, creating tough, colorful pouches in which we can store cellphones, etc., to keep them safe from water damage." – W.L. in North Carolina

• You can sharpen scissors by cutting folded aluminum foil into small strips.

• The best time of day to water your lawn is the evening. The cooler temperatures allow the water to sink into the soil instead of evaporating with the heat of the day. Always follow your city or county guidelines on watering times for your area.

Q: When does the TV series based on the movie "Willow" premiere? How many years ago was the film, and was it based on a book? – A.K.

A: The story of "Willow," which was previously a film that starred Val Kilmer, Warwick Davis and Joanne Whalley, will soon be continued in a series on Disney+. Davis and Whalley will reprise their roles of the sorcerer and warrior queen, respectively, but reportedly not Kilmer, who has voice issues after battling throat cancer. He also wasn't able to travel to Wales to shoot due to the COVID-19 lockdowns. Perhaps if the series moves on to a second season, they'll find a way to include Kilmer.

Ron Howard, the film's director back in 1988, will serve as a producer on the series. He told "Entertainment Weekly," "This isn't a nostalgic throwback. It's a creative lean forward," introducing all-new characters and taking place years after the original.

"Willow" didn't begin as a novel, but according to Ranker.com, it's considered a "watered-down version of 'The Lord of the Rings.'" It's about a "heroic dwarf who just wants to be a sorcerer, tasked with protecting a baby" from an evil queen.

Kilmer does appear briefly in the new "Top Gun" sequel, reprising his iconic character of "Iceman," and plans to play Mark Twain in a feature film, but that will likely depend on how his voice recovers, if at all.

"Willow" the series begins streaming on Nov. 30 on Disney+.

Q: I was so sad to hear about the passing of actor Ray Liotta. I'm pretty certain I saw him on a daytime soap opera before he starred in classic movies like "Goodfellas." Which soap character did he play? – R.B.

A: Like many stars, Ray Liotta got his first big break on a daytime soap. In his case, it was playing nice guy Joey Perrini on "Another World" from 1978 to 1981. According to Harding Lemay, former head writer of "AW," Liotta stood out among his peers, eliciting a strong response from the audience. Sadly, he passed away in his sleep May 26 at age 67.

Q: Whatever happened to actor Tim Robbins? He was so good in "Bull Durham" and "Shawshank Redemption," but I haven't watched him in anything since. – G.E.

A: Tim Robbins was one of the biggest movie stars of the '90s. Along with the two notable films you mentioned, he starred in critically acclaimed, indie-type movies like "The Player" and "The Hudsucker Proxy." In the early 2000s, he won the Best Supporting Actor Oscar for "Mystic River," but for the past decade he's been working steadily under the radar.

Robbins and co-star Leslie Mann ("This Is 40") recently departed the upcoming Amazon series "The Power" before it ever really got off the ground. Described as a global sci-fi thriller, it suffered many delays due to the pandemic, and reportedly, Robbins' role was bumped down to a recurring one before his exit. He's quickly bounced back with another series, "Wool," created by Graham Yost ("Justified") for Apple TV+.

Look Into Crowdfunding to Rehome Inherited Pets

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: I'm writing in regard to the person who "inherited" her relative's pets but is unable to keep them. While directly posting the pets for adoption on social media may not be a good option for all of the reasons you previously listed, I do think there's an opportunity for Sherrie to harness the reach of those platforms to raise the money she needs to get them rehomed properly and to cover their medical care. I'm continually amazed (and encouraged) by the kindness of strangers on GoFundMe pages for pets. – Lauren P.

DEAR LAUREN: That's certainly an option to cover the cost of their care. Crowdfunding is an increasingly popular way to quickly raise cash to cover pets' medical needs and care needs. GoFundMe has dedicated a page with several ideas for pet funding: https://www.gofundme.com/c/fundraising-ideas/pets, and there is even a pet-specific crowdfunding organization, Waggle: https://www.waggle.org, which helps owners raise money for pets' medical procedures.

To crowdfund a pet's care and treatment, do plenty of research first. Look at active fundraisers to see what messages are effective and double-check the rules about pet fundraising at each crowdfunding site.

To rehome a pet, there is at least one online resource that may be helpful. Adopt-A-Pet and Petco's rehome service (https://rehome.adoptapet.com/) is a go-between service that helps owners connect with people who are looking to adopt.

I still recommend that Sherrie contacts the local shelter to get information about rehoming or, if all else fails, surrendering the pets safely to the shelter. But the above options may be a great help as she hunts for new owners for her relative's pets.

Irma Vep (NR) -- Mira is a successful American movie star who gained most of her fame by acting in box office hits. After growing weary of blockbusters, Mira accepts the role of Irma Vep in a remake of the French silent film "Les Vampires," much to the dismay of her agent, Zelda. Mira travels to France to work under the outlandish director Rene Vidal, and as Mira works to develop her character, Irma's reality eerily starts to merge into Mira's until she is unable to discern which is which. This drama-thriller miniseries depicts the making of "Irma Vep" and the story of its lead actress (played by Alicia Vikander) attempting to come out of it with her sanity. (HBO Max)

Ms. Marvel (TV-PG) — Meet Kamala Khan (Iman Vellani), a 16-year-old high school student in Jersey City. She is artistic, a gamer and, being an Avengers fangirl, even writes superhero fanfiction. But Kamala's prone to living in her own fantasies more than she focuses on making a realistic plan for her approaching future. But then, Kamala finds a discarded family heirloom, a bracelet that activates cosmic powers within her, and she finally receives everything she's fantasized about: Kamala can become a superhero. But now that she has her powers, it remains up to Kamala to prove she can bring this dream to life and, eventually, save the world. Episode 1 of this TV miniseries premieres June 8. (Disney+)

Hustle (R) — Another Adam Sandler movie hits Netflix, the same streaming platform that released recent Sandler films like "Uncut Gems" and "Hubie Halloween." In this sports film, we see Sandler more seriously as former 76ers basketball scout Stanley Sugarman, itching to work his way back into the NBA. On a trip to Spain, Stanley meets Bo Cruz, an undiscovered player with superstar talent. Stanley convinces Bo to leave his family and travel back to Philadelphia with him in order to train Bo up in time for the draft. Sure to encounter obstacles on the way, both Bo and Stanley must rely on their great love for the game to kick off their careers once again. A heart-warming story about how grit, discipline and bending the rules can serve as a game-changer. Premieres June 8. (Netflix)

Conversations with Friends (TV-MA) — Based on the novel of the same name by Sally Rooney, this TV series adaptation from Hulu and the BBC follows the lives of two best friends, Frances and Bobbi, and a married couple, Nick and Melissa. The two pairs meet, and the lines between them all become blurred quite quickly. Frances connects well with Nick, while Bobbi ensues her own flirtation with Melissa. But Frances, having only been with Bobbi romantically, falls down the rabbit hole much quicker than Bobbi does and must deal with the consequences of her actions once she realizes she's in way too deep with Nick. The bidding:

North	East	South	West

3 NT

Opening lead — eight of spades.

It is an essential principle of declarer play that when the outcome is in doubt, you proceed on the assumption that the cards are divided in a way that permits the contract to be made. To play otherwise would be self-defeating.

The same principle applies to defensive play. A defender should not credit declarer with a hand that makes the contract impregnable.

Consider this deal, where East applied the principle very effectively. He won the opening spade lead with the king and returned the king of hearts!

From then on, South was fighting a losing battle. He won with the ace and returned the king of clubs, but West, of course, ducked. This rendered the dummy useless to declarer, and he eventually finished down two.

Now let's assume that East had not led the king of hearts at trick two and had returned a low heart instead. In that case, South would win with the queen, establish dummy's clubs and, with the ace of hearts still in dummy, have no trouble scoring 10 tricks.

The spectacular king-of-hearts play has a sound foundation. East reasons that if declarer has the ace of clubs, the contract cannot be defeated. He therefore credits West with that card.

Once East makes this assumption, it follows that the only way to neutralize dummy's clubs is to dislodge dummy's side entry. There is no way East can be certain that his plan will succeed, but he knows that unless he attacks boldly, his cause is almost surely lost.

Note that South can't thwart East's plan by ducking the first heart. In that case, East simply continues hearts to achieve the same result.

Can She Donate Plasma Despite Gene Mutation?

DEAR DR. ROACH: When my mother discovered she has a factor V mutation, everyone in the family decided to be tested as a precaution. This is a hereditary item, which I am sure you know. It was determined that I carry the gene. I am 65. I have had no issues, and it probably never would have been discovered if we did not go looking for it. This was discovered over 10 years ago and is listed on all my charts. I would like to donate plasma for extra money. I am not on any type of blood thinners except for a baby aspirin every morning. I take a statin for cholesterol control. Can I donate my plasma? -- S.S.

ANSWER: Factor V is a blood clotting factor made in the liver. A common mutation in the gene, called factor V Leiden, confers a small increased risk to developing blood clots. People with factor V Leiden and who have never had a blood clot are generally not started on medication to prevent one; however, they may need more aggressive prophylactic treatment to prevent clot at a time of surgery, for example. Although some experts use aspirin in this situation, there is not good evidence to support it.

People with factor V Leiden may donate blood, platelets or plasma safely, as long as they are not on an anticoagulant such as warfarin.

Only a very few medicines prevent people from donating blood. In addition to anticoagulants, these include medicines that can cause serious birth defects (such as Accutane, used for acne; finasteride and dutasteride, used for prostate enlargement and baldness; and Aubagio, a treatment for multiple sclerosis) and those which might cause infection risk (human-derived growth hormone).

DEAR DR. ROACH: I am 87 and take 10 mg of melatonin every night to help me sleep. I have heard it is perfectly safe. Are there any side effects to melatonin? I know a lot of people who take it, including a child who takes 3 mg.-- B.D.

ANSWER: Melatonin is a hormone secreted in the pineal gland of the brain that affects sleep and circadian rhythms. At nighttime, melatonin blood levels are 10 times higher than in the day. Melatonin is used extensively as a sleep aid, as you can confirm.

There is no substance you can put in your body that is perfectly safe at all doses. To paraphrase a wise man, anyone who tells you differently is selling something. However, the risk of major side effects with even high doses of melatonin is low. The major adverse events reported were headache, fragmented sleep and seizures. Rare adverse events reported included confusion, psychosis, autoimmune hepatitis and rash.

Incidentally, the term "side effect" means an unintended effect that occurs from a drug when taken correctly. "Adverse event" refers to any undesired reaction that comes with taking a medication. Adverse events are more common at high doses. With very high doses of melatonin can come additional types of reactions, including poor memory and reduced physical exercise performance.

Ten mg is far more melatonin than I recommend starting with. For older people, I recommend 0.5 mg to 1 mg about an hour before bed. Higher doses are generally not more effective and have higher risk.

1. Name the group that released "What's the Name of Your Love?"
2. Who wrote and released "Have I Told You Lately"?
3. What was the original name of The Ronettes?
4. Which duo released "Nobody I Know"?
5. Name the song that contains this lyric: "Wait a minute baby ... Stay with me awhile, Said you'd give me light, But you never told me about the fire."

Answers:

1. The Emotions, in 1979. The group performed the song in 1980 on "The Midnight Special" variety show.
2. Van Morrison, in 1989. In a U.K. poll, the song made the list of "Top 10 First Dance Wedding Songs," and in the U.S. it was included on a list of "The 100 Greatest Love Songs."
3. Ronnie and the Relatives. The trio included Veronica (known as Ronnie), her sister Estelle and cousin Nedra.
4. Peter & Gordon, in 1964. It was penned by Paul McCartney (although credited to Lennon-McCartney).
5. "Sara," by Fleetwood Mac, in 1979. The origins of the song are debatable. Songwriter Stevie Nicks said it was about a good friend. Former boyfriend Don Henley claimed it was a name he'd chosen for a future daughter, should he ever have one.

Beechwood Knoll School Supports End Hunger New England

On May 24th, Beechwood Knoll students and staff participated in a service event at End Hunger New England, a non-profit organization located in Pembroke.

This organization hosts food packaging events around the country. With more than 675 million meals packed to date, End Hunger's mission is to provide safe water, food, medical care, and education to those in need at home and abroad.

Beechwood Knoll students had the opportunity to pack over 20,000 meals which will be shipped to local families in need, as well as shipped to Ukrainian refugees. Fourth grade teachers Laura Mulcahy, Gregory Caswell and Kelsey Bina shared the sentiment "Our students worked together, worked hard, and worked towards a global mission. It is so important to give children the opportunity to think of others, to practice empathy, and to lead by serving others."

These 4th graders will always remember their "not so typical" field trip that left them with an amazing feeling of accomplishment and taught them great lessons about perspective and how even at 10 years old they can make a difference!

End Hunger is run by Matthew Martin and is 100% funded by donations and volunteering. Visit endhungerne.org to learn more about this wonderful organization and donate or volunteer if you can.

The North Atlantic Convoys Of WWII Topic At Adams Academy June 14

"An army marches on its stomach" is an age-old adage, but how do you feed an army? This question of how to transport, feed, and equip one's troops is one of the biggest logistical conundrums of any military engagement. Wars can be won or lost on this single aspect. In World War II the production and supply lines played a pivotal role in the Allies' success in the Atlantic Theater.

On Tuesday, June 14th at 7 p.m. at the Adams Academy, perennial favorite, Bob Begin will share the story of the North Atlantic Convoys of World War II and answer the question of how the Allies managed to keep their troops in fighting form.

The Atlantic Campaign was the longest single campaign of World War II. From its beginnings in September 1939 until Germany's surrender in May of 1945, the Atlantic would be the scene of continual clashes between Germany's Kreigsmarine and the Allied fleets consisting of the Royal Navy, Canadian Navy, US Navy, the US Coast Guard, and Allied aviators.

In addition, the ever-present fleet of merchant ships manned by merchant mariners were a constant target for U boats and the Luftwaffe. The ocean itself was another omnipresent source of danger and could be as deadly as any enemy. Begin is delighted to have the opportunity to share this story.

This event is open to all and free to attend. The Adams Academy is located at 8 Adams St., Quincy.

Rodent Proofing Tips

The City of Quincy Health Department is reminding residents about steps that can be taken to better prevent rodent problems in your yard and home. See steps below that you can take to reduce rodent activity.

Proper Garbage and Rubbish Storage

- Never store full plastic garbage bags in your yard.
- Use sturdy, durable garbage cans with tight-fitting lids.
- Do not place garbage out at curbside, in plastic or paper bags and boxes until the morning of collection.

Eliminate Potential Rodent Harborages

- Remove lumber piles, and all other debris from your property.
- Cleanup, remove and dispose of any overgrowth of shrubs and brush and tall grass/weeds on your property.
- Store firewood on a rack at least 18 inches off the ground and at least one foot away from any building or structure.

Remove Potential Food and Water Sources

- When possible, do not feed your pet outdoors. If you must, make sure to remove all uneaten food as soon as your pet is done eating. Feed only during daylight hours and supervise your pet while it eats. Remove pet waste from your yard.
- Remove any un-harvested or spoiled remains from vegetable gardens and around fruit trees.
- Don't scatter food for birds or squirrels in your yard. Place bird seed in proper receptacles. Regularly clean-up any spilled bird seed from the ground.
- Store bird seed and lawn seed in strong, durable containers with tight-fitting lids.
- Remove water sources such as rainwater collection barrel covers

Bridget Wright To Attend American Legion Auxiliary Girls State Program

June 11-16 At Stonehill College

The American Legion Auxiliary Department of Massachusetts will hold its annual Girls State program at Stonehill College in Easton from June 11 to June 17.

This year, Bridget Rose Wright, a student at the Woodward School, has been selected by the Cyril P. Morrisette American Post 294 Ladies Auxiliary to be their representative. More than 25,000 students have participated in this program since 1945.

Students from across Massachusetts will come together to participate in this week's study of local and state government. The citizens will establish and operate their own municipalities, form political parties, nominate candidates for office, conduct campaigns, and participate in elections.

Speakers, such as state senators and representatives as well as other community leaders, will come to campus to speak to the students about their experiences as well as answer all types of questions. Students will learn the responsibilities of different branches of government, and the qualifications and benefits of ma y of the leading professions in political science.

At each ALA Girls State program, two representatives are chosen to travel to Washington, D.C. to participate in civics on a national level at The American Legion Auxiliary's Girls Nation program. They will travel the capital, visiting many landmarks and historical sites while learning about our nation's government. This year's Girls Nation program will be held July 23-30.
